Two Garey students drown as auto plunges into channel; two escape

Two Garey High School students were drowned Monday afternoon when their car went out of control and plunged into 10 feet of water in a flood control channel near Chino.

But two of their companions survived by forcing their way out of the submerged car.

The dead youths are Gerry Weldon, 15, of 956 E. Seventh St. and Rodney M. Taylor, 17, of 2204 S. Glenroy St., Pomona.

Both were unable to escape from the car and drowned after it quickly sank into the cold, muddy water, according to San Bernardino County Coroner Bill Hill.

Stephen Jacas, 16, of 2358 S. San Antonio Ave., Pomona, the driver of the blue Mustang sports coupe, and another passenger Primas Taylor, 14, of 1781 Calatina Drive, Pomona were the survivors. They were treated for shock and minor injuries at Chino General Hospital and later released.

According to Highway Patrolman Charles Tassin and Deputy Coroner Harvey Castro, two men target shooting witnessed the accident at the San Antonio Flood Control Channel three-tenths of a mile south of Los Serranos Boulevard near the Corona Expressway about 12:40 p.m.

The witness, Walter D. Holzen of Westminster and Clyde D. Pridgeon of Anaheim told officers they watched as the blue car raced up and down the rough paved road above the channel spinning "doughnuts" or "brodies."

The witnesses said the car spun around on the road, slid into the tall grass and then plunged over the embankment, splashing into an unusually deep pool of cold, brackish water 15 feet below.

Pridgeon told patrolmen the car quickly sank and he ran to the channel to help the youths. He said he helped Jacas and Primas Taylor up the bank to safety, while Holzen went for help. Priegeon and Holtzman said they could not see any other youths in the water.

Tassin said that Jacas told him that after the car plunged over the embankment he and Primas Taylor managed to crawl into the back seat where an airpocket remained. He said they managed to force open a window and he pulled himself outside. Taylor grabbed onto Jacas' leg, and pulled himself outside.

When highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies arrived they were able to recover the body of Rodney Taylor. The officers first on the scene reported they could not locate the body of the fourth youth and two divers slid into the water and began probing for the body. A few minutes later the body of Weldon was located and pulled ashore. Patrolmen said they believe Weldon was trapped underneath the auto.

Patrolmen learned from Jacas and Taylor that the youths had left Garey High School on passes after the fourth period and decided to take a ride. The youths drove into Chino and turned onto the road above the channel and began driving the car in tall grass.

Jacas claimed he lost control of the car while they were trying to drive closer to the channel, officers said.

Castro said it was a quirk of fate that the car plunged over the embankment where it did. He said the pond below was the only place in the 15-mile long channel where the water is more than two feet deep.

Castro added that the four youths all were thrown into the backseat of the auto when it hit the water, and, had they not panicked, all four might have survived. He said the youths panicked when they opened the rear window of the car and the water began pouring inside.

Authorities said the two Taylor youths were not related.

The bodies of the two youths were transported to Speers Funeral Home in Chino, where funeral arrangements are pending.

Pomona School District administrators confirmed the Garey students involved in the accident left campus during a lunch hour.

The open campus policy in Pomona's high schools allows students to leave campus during staggered noon hours, and also after completing individual course requirements.

A high school student is restricted to campus during the lunch hours only if parents request it.

The open campus policy has been severely criticized by some parents in the past.

Pomonans get mailing break on income tax

Valley residents have until midnight to mail their state and federal income tax returns, but except for Pomona they'd better get to the mail drop much earlier.

Because of recent changes in the valley in the handling of outgoing mail, the last pickup is now about 5 p.m. at most post offices.

In Ontario the last collection at that main office is at 7:30.

Pomona is the exception. Postmaster Warren T. Lynch said that as a special service to patrons, all mail dropped off at the Pomona main postoffice before midnight will have an April 15 cancellation date.

"This is a special accommodation," Lynch said. "We can only do it today."

Elsewhere, the midnight deadline is a moot point. All mail in the valley is now collected shortly after 5 p.m. daily and dispatched to a postal distribution center in Industry.

The U.S. Postal Service said this is done to improve the efficiency of the department.

Postmasters also admonished patrons to put enough stamps on their envelopes to insure delivery. They said that if insufficient postage is affixed, the letter will be returned to the sender.

Those whose income taxes are postmarked later than today are subect to penalties, both by the state and the federal government.

About 20 million Americans are expected to file by midnight.

VICTIM RECOVERED

Scuba divers retrieve the body of a youth who drowned Monday when a car he was riding in plunged over a steep embankment, background, and into a 10-foot deep pool of water south of Los Serranos Boulevard in Chino in a flood control channel. A second youth also drowned in the mishap that occurred about 12:45 p.m. The car, originally submerged, was towed up the embankment.

Report Phnom Penh is still holding out

By Associated Press

The Cambodian government reportedly still held Phnom Penh today despite claims by the Khmer Rouge radio that Communist-led insurgents were "penetrating deep" into the city and occupied the airport.

In South Vietnam, fighting continued on three sides of Saigon and the Viet Cong blew up a bomb dump at the big Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of the capital.

Cambodian troops in Phnom Penh told newsmen the insurgents were at the northern outskirts of the city but had not entered. The city was quiet and the government radio continued to broadcast.

Field reports said that the town of Takhmau six miles south of the capital was abandoned to the rebels after it came under heavy recoilless and mortar fire. At least 100 government soldiers were reported killed or wounded, and six 105mm howitzers were left behind.

Newsmen in Phnom Penh said the Khmer Rouge still held a marketplace astride the road to the airport. Reports Monday night said the government had airlifted reinforcements to the airfield to join about 1,000 troops trying to hold a line along the railroad parallel to the highway.

Sydney Schanberg of the New York Times, one of the six Americans known to have remained in Phnom Penh, said he drove through the Pochentong market and saw the rebels, but they made no effort to stop him.

Schanberg talked by radio with a charter place circling the capital. Newsmen aboard the plane said the University of Phnom Penh, about halfway to Pochentong airport three miles west of the capital, appeared to have been turned into a major government military base.

Schanberg said the government defense lines were within three miles of downtown Phnom Penh at some points. But field reports indicated a lull in fighting on the city's fronts, punctuated by rocket fire.

Both sexes adults at the same age

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of equal rights for men and women scored another victory in the Supreme Court today as the court ruled that states must set the same age of majority for both sexes.

By an 8 to 1 vote, the court struck down a Utah law under which women reached the age of majority at 18 and men at 21 for purposes of eligibility for child support and the right to marry without parental consent.

The court said that Arkansas apparently is the only other state with a similar law.

Skeletons disclose fate of missing family of four

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — The fate of a Southern Oregon family of four which vanished without a trace last summer has been learned with the discovery of skeletal remains, but mystery still surrounds the deaths.

The remains found over the weekend by prospectors were identified through dental records Monday as those of Richard Cowden, 27; his wife, Belinda, 22; son David, 5; and daughter Melissa, 5 months.

State police said two of the skulls had bullet holes in them, but declined to say which two.

Police say there is no indication of who killed the family, or why, but Oregon State Police Lt. Mark Kezar speculated that the slayer was a local person familiar with the mountainous area.

The remains were found about 6½ miles northwest of a campsite near the town of Copper, from which the family vanished Sept. 1, 1974.

Hundreds of searchers combed the area for miles around after the Cowdens were reported missing, including the general area where the remains were found, but they discovered no trace of the family.

Kezar said two Forest Grove prospectors, Allan West and Marvin Proctor, found Cowden's remains on a steep hillside Saturday. The remains of his wife and children were found stuffed into a small cave, or grotto, about 200 yards away.

Police said a vehicle apparently was used to bring the Cowdens or their bodies to the area.

Cowden, a log truck driver from White City, had planned to haul gravel for his driveway on that Labor Day weekend last year, but arrangements to borrow a truck fell through.

So he took his family camping in the Carberry Creek area 35 miles southwest of Medford, just north of the California state line.

Congress mulls U.S. troops in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eager to avoid risking U.S. re-entry into the Vietnam war, a cautious Congress is beginning work on legislation to authorize U.S. troops to protect evacuations from South Vietnam if necessary.

Three Senate committees met today on parts of President Ford's request for additional military and humanitarian aid for South Vietnam and clarification of the congressional ban on U.S. military activity in Indochina.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, after an unusual meeting with President Ford at the White House Monday, met in closed session to consider troop-use legislation.

Meanwhile, Rep. Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., a member of the House International Relations Committee, said he expects full House action by the end of the week on Ford's requests for humanitarian aid for South Vietnam and authority to use U.S. forces if necessary for an evacuation.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., on Monday introduced a resolution to limit use of troops in any evacuation of Americans.

Byrd said the dangers of U.S. reinvolvement in the Vietnam war are too great if U.S. troops are assigned to help evacuate friendly South Vietnamese.

Responding to President Ford's concern for "tens of thousands" of South Vietnamese officials and supporters of American war efforts, the administration has suggested broad language to authorize the use of U.S. armed forces "to aid, assist and carry out humanitarian evacuation, if ordered by the president."

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said there was "candid discussion" of the issues at the White House meeting Monday.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., ranking committee Republican, said there was "general agreement in a broad sense that we are going to work out whatever legislation is necessary."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the mood of the meeting, which both Kissinger and Schlesinger attended, was "very serious."

Senate Democrats deferred a vote on the South Vietnam issues at a caucus meeting Monday. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the caucus chairman and Senate majority leader, said it was decided to await committee recommendations, which he said will be "expeditious."

Assembly proposal

Jobless pay for farm labor urged

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California farmworkrs would be eligible for about $71 million in annual unemployment benefits if legislation approved by the Assembly becomes law.

Currently, state unemployment insurance does not cover California's 245,000 farm workers, meaning they are treated as "fourth rate citizens," said Assemblyman Jack Fenton.

The Montebello Democrat said his bill is long overdue and would save more than $11 million in welfare costs each year.

The Assembly voted 54-15 Monday to refer his measure to the Senate for its consideration.

Fenton said the state unemployment benefits would be paid out of mandatory contributions from farmers and other employe unemployment funds. He added that the federal government has already extended temporary unemployment benefits to farm workers through the end of March 1976.

Assemblyman John Thurman, a Modesto Democrat who chairs the Assembly Agriculture Committee, termed the measure a "sensible bill" and commended Fenton for carrying it.

Former Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed similar Fenton measures several times during his eight-year term in office.

Fenton's bill is AB 118.

Violating desegregation order?

Judge orders probe of Pasadena school board

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge has ordered an investigation to determine if four members of the Pasadena school board are in criminal contempt of court for allegedly violating his desegregation order.

U.S. District Court Judge Manuel L. Real gave the order Monday and directed the U.S. Attorney's office to bring charges—if warranted—within 20 days.

Real's referral of the matter to federal authorities came after he dismissed a move by Pasadena attorney Charles B. Johnson to have the four board members held in criminal contempt. The reason for dismissing Johnson's action was not given.

The four board members in question are Henry Marcheschi, Dr. Henry Myers Jr., Richard Vetterli and Lyman Newton.

Real also appointed Fred Okrand, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Southern California and the plaintiffs' attorney in the five-year-old desegregation suit, to conduct an independent investigation if the U.S. Attorney does not meet the 20-day deadline.

AIRBORN BROWN-BAGGERS

Something new is going on in U.S. airplanes—passengers are bringing their own food aboard, sitting in the tail section and saving 35 per cent of the fare. It's all part of a new plan to cut rates. Among airlines offering it are Delta, Eastern, Continental, American and National. Above, two unidentified National passengers munched their way from New York to Miami Monday. Passengers boarded the flight with food ranging from fried chicken and corned beef to animal crackers.

Airline chief protests U.S. halting Cambodia food flights

OAKLAND (AP) — Ed Daly, the World Airways president who brought hundreds of Vietnamese war orphans to the United States in recent weeks, has wired an angry telegram to President Ford, protesting cancellation of his airline's contract to fly food to Cambodia.

"There is no wonder that the peoples of the world have lost their confidence in the U.S. government and its people," Daly said in the telegram Monday from Saigon.

He sent copies to Ford, his cabinet, Congress and all 50 governors. The contents were released at World Airways headquarters here.

Daly said the Military Airlift Command notified him that World Airways' contract for supplying food to Cambodia had been terminated Monday.

Daly said the notification came "within hours of my forecast of the fall of Saigon."

He said the termination meant the U.S. government no longer guaranteed the safety of his crews or more than $22 million worth of flight equipment on the ground in Saigon. Without a contract, he said, the equipment was left uninsured.

"With due respect to you and your worldwide problems, Mr. President, I strongly urge you to get the incompetents out of here immediately and appoint someone with the intelligence, competency and the guts necessary to get the job done," Daly said, adding: "You don't have days or weeks — you only have minutes."

One of juvenile panel proposals

S.D. studies site for teen dances

The San Dimas City Council instructed its Parks and Recreation Department Monday night to investigate the possible use of the Community Building in the Civic Center for teen dances on weekends.

The council directive followed an extensive report by Tom Watterson, chairman of the city's Juvenile Justice Commission.

The commission, formed nearly a year ago following a suggestion by Mayor James Lough, included these recommendations to the council:

—Establishment of a juvenile diversion project within the city limits.

—A rekuest to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. for the release of state funds for such a project.

—A program of cooperation between Bonita Unified School District and the city to alleviate the primary juvenile crimes of burglary and drug and alcohol abuse.

—Development of a youth and the law program.

—A campaign with local businesses to employ youth.

The commission is comprised of Watterson; Don Webber, vice chairman, Beryl Fordyce, secretary; San Dimas High School students Tony Carpenter and Lesley Dias; John Brahs and Dennis Douglas.

Watterson reported that juvenile crime in the city was "relatively low" compared to other cities. The primary problems are burglaries and narcotic abuse, the latter including mainly marijuana, pills and alcohol.

Although San Dimas is among the few communities which have a Juvenile Justice Commission representing a cross-section of its citizens, said Watterson, it does not have a referral agency that can divert children from the juvenile halls and youth prisons.

It currently relies on the La Verne-San Dimas Open Door located in La Verne for referrals for first offenders and minor violations.

"You should give serious consideration to establishing a similar service in the City of San Dimas," said Watterson. "The Open Door is a well thought of organization by both the recipients of the service and the community. But it's too distant from this community. We need something here."

He told councilmen that Gov. Brown had frozen funds from the Office of Criminal Justice Planning. The city had hoped to get $15,000 from this source. He asked that the council send a letter to Sacramento requesting the release of the funds for the upcoming fiscal year.

Representatives agree that there is a lack of activities for older children and that recreational activity here should be improved and expanded, he continued.

Councilman James McLean, a member of the Optimist Club, reported that the service club had sponsored dances on Sunday evening at the Community Building. The events were coordinated with San Dimas High School students and met with great success and no problems. The students policed themselves and organized the dances with Optimist Club members merely serving as chaperones.

"Anything is better than nothing," Watterson said. "I would only suggest that the dances be on a Friday night after a game or on a Saturday evening."

The commission chairman also stated that "employment is critical to getting kids out of trouble." He suggested that the city and schools "work together to make employers aware of the service they perform for the community by giving kids jobs."

He lastly recommended establishing an awards program to recognize the people who worked so diligently on behalf of youth.

In other action, the council:

— Voted 4-1, with McLean voting no, to purchase the Mariposa Park site for development in the Via Verde area.

— Approved a request from Bruce Richards, director of the Pomona Valley Humane Society, to increase dog licensing fees. The fees are now $4 for an altered animal and $8 for an unaltered dog.

— Adjourned the meeting to 8 a.m. Wednesday to hear a transit report from Alan M. Voorhees and representatives of the San Bernardino Associated Governments.

Stiffer penalties for employers

New child farm labor law proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The maximum fine for employers who intentionally use young children as farm laborers would be raised to $5,000 under legislation that has easily cleared the Assembly.

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy's measure would tighten working hour limits on some teenaged farm workers but loosen it for other youthful workers.

The San Francisco Democrat's bill was sent to the state Senate by a 46-3 tally Monday.

In an interview, McCarthy said his bill would:

—"Impose stiff fines on employers who knowingly use young children in the fields illegally." The maximum fine would be raised from the current $1,000 limit to $5,000.

—Shift initial jurisdiction on child labor violations to a state labor hearing board from local courts — which critics have contended are in the pocket of agricultural interests.

—Limit minors 16 and 17 years old to six hours of field work on a school day, and minors 14 and 15 years old to four hours on a school day. Present law only limits minors under 18 to a total of 20 hours field work in any school week.

—Prohibit minors under 12 from accompanying their parents in the fields in areas near moving equipment, unprotected chemicals, unprotected water hazards or any other hazards specified by the Department of Industrial Relations.

McCarthy said several major farm groups were neutral on his bill.

He predicted Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. would sign the measure, which is similar to one authored by McCarthy last year that was vetoed Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Radical bookstore in L.A. bombed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A radical bookstore in East Los Angeles has been bombed for the second time this year, and a Cuban anti-Castro group has claimed credit for the blast, authorities say.

A three-foot hole in the roof of the Unidos Bookstore was discovered Monday, although the explosion was heard Sunday night by patrolling sheriff's deputies.

The Associated Press received a call Sunday night from an unidentified man who said, "The bomb at McBride and Whittier Boulevard (the location of the store) was by a Cuban anti-Castro group in retaliation for bombs in Northern California."

There have been several bombings in the San Francisco Bay area this year attributed to left-wing organizations.

Assembly votes to restrict IQ tests

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly has overwhelmingly approved legislation that would cut back the use of IQ tests in California schools.

Assemblyman Willie Brown argued that the intelligence tests are culturally biased and that their use should not be mandatory.

The San Francisco Democrat said his bill restricts the use of intelligence tests to use only on an individual basis by a licensed person. An IQ test could not be used as the sole means of placing a student at a certain level of instruction under the measure, he added.

Brown said that many districts now use IQ tests on a mandatory basis.

Women inmates win equal rights issue

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Women prisoners in Contra Costa County no longer must be confined to the county's maximum security jail if they qualify for lower-security facilities in neighboring counties.

The county also agreed in federal court Monday to "undertake in good faith and to plan and provide" minimum-security and work-education furlough facilities for women. At present the county has only a maximum-security jail in Martinez for women, but offers different levels of security for male prisoners.

Under the settlement, qualified women will be able to transfer to lower-security institutions in Alameda or Sacramento County. For those qualified women who prefer to remain in Martinez, restrictions will be eased to include one three-minute visit per week with up to three adults, or with children under 18.

The settlement approved by U.S. District Judge Alphonso Zirpoli stems from a class action suit filed Jan. 15 by Carol Phelps, 25, a mother of five serving a one-year term for grand theft.

Police have gun used in five Zebra cases

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police have the .32-caliber automatic used in some of the random street slayings that terrorized this city in the winter of 1973-74, the prosecution disclosed in opening remarks at the so-called Zebra murder trial.

Dist. Atty. Robert Podesta said Monday the Italian-made pistol was used in five of the 20 murders and assaults, which police coded "Zebra" to identify the radio channel used during the investigation.

Podesta also told the jury of seven women and five men that police have a gold and emerald wedding ring taken from Quita Hague, a victim nearly beheaded by a machete-like instrument.

The defendants are Larry C. Green, 23; J.C.X. Simon, 28; Manuel Moore, 30, and Jessie Cooks, 30. All are Black Muslims. The trail involves the killing of Mrs. Hague and the knife assault on her husband, Richard, and the murders of Tana Smith, Jane Holly and the nonfatal assaults on Roxanne McMillan, Terry White and Ward Anderson.

San Diego Electric under stinging homeowner attack

LA MESA (AP) — Homeowners angered by the size of their electric bills have asked the state Public Utilites Commission to deny a $20 million rate increase requested by San Diego Gas & Electric Co.

The utility contends that the money is needed to cover higher costs of fuel, employe wages and operating expenses.

At PUC hearings opened Monday, consumers spokesmen and senior citizens complained about electricity rates and accused the utility of making excessive profits.

"San Diego Gas & Electric Co., has had 11 or 12 rate increases in the last two years," said Max Sparer, a retired teacher from San Diego. "How many increases have there been for senior citizens? They have fixed incomes."

Sparer called for a public review of the company's books. SDG&E is now suing to block an audit by the state Auditor General.

"Are they afraid the books will reveal the truth about their profits?" he said.

Escondido consumer affairs worker Mary Jane Morgan told the commission that low-income senior citizens are being driven from their homes by high utility bills.

"They are going without food, medical care and they have shut down all of their appliances in their homes and they still can't make it," she said.

Noting that SDG&E has called on consumers to make sacrifices, Albert Parker of San Diego said:

"So far, I haven't seen any sacrifices by San Diego Gas & Electric Co. The company is guaranteed an 8.7 per cent return.

"I can name half a dozen of America's top companies who today are struggling to make a 2 or 3 per cent profit."

The hearings continue today.

Snipings, hit-run bombings continue 3rd day in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting with machine guns and grenades continued for the third day today in Beirut streets between Palestinian guerrillas and a conservative political party's private army.

Most businesses, schools and government offices remained closed. The usually hectic traffic slowed to a trickle.

Sniping and hit-and-run bombings took several more casualties this morning, bringing to about 80 the number of Palestinians, militiamen and bystanders reported killed. More than 300 persons were reported wounded, according to the warring parties and police.

Most of the fighting was occurring in five suburbs where Palestinian guerrillas were trying to dislodge snipers from rooftops and balconies, Palestinian sources said.

A pharmacy owned by Pierre Gemayel, the leader of the conservative Phalangist party, was damaged by a rocket grenade during the night and a bomb blew up the home of another Phalangist leader, police sources reported.

Premier Rashid Solh still refused to order the 15,000-man Lebanese army into action despite the threat of two Socialist members of his cabinet to resign if the army was not ordered into the streets.

The cabinet authorized use of the army, but the premier relied on the security police, underlining the limited power at his disposal to deal with the combatants.

The violence grew out of tensions caused by the presence of 240,000 Palestinian refugees in this half Christian-half Moslem nation. About 12,000 of the refugees are in trained guerrilla units.

Beirut hotels advised guests to stay indoors, and the U.S. Embassy told Americans to stay at home. A few businesses reopened today and some people ventured cautiously into the empty streets.

Connally denies he took bribes, ends testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally today completed giving direct testimony in his own defense against bribery charges and prepared to answer cross-examination by prosecutors.

Connally's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, concluded direct questioning with a flourish.

"I have four final questions," Williams said.

The government charges that Connally took $5,000 from Jake Jacobsen on May 14, 1971. "Is that true or false?" Williams asked.

"That is false, Mr. Williams, that is absolutely false," Connally replied firmly.

The government also charges that Connally took a second $5,000 from Jacobsen on Sept. 24, 1971.

True or false?" Williams asked again.

"That is absolutely false," said Connally.

Did Connally give Jacobsen $10,000 in cover-up cash in a cigar box on Oct. 29, 1973, as Jacobsen alleges? Williams asked.

"That's false. I did no such thing," Connally said.

On Nov. 25, 1973, did Connally give Jacobsen another $10,000 in cover-up cash as Jacobsen says? Williams asked.

"That is absolutely false, I did no such thing," Connally repeated.

Connally is charged with accepting two $5,000 payments in return for his efforts in persuading the Nixon administration to raise milk prices.

Paroled after jail term

Former Manson family member seeks new life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Charles Manson "family" member Catherine Share, seeking a new life, says she calls herself by a new name now and is getting medical attention to erase the Manson "X" from her forehead.

CATHERINE SHARE

Miss Share, known in the "family" as Gypsy, held a news conference Monday to announce, "I don't intend to let the public's obsessions with what they have been told put me in a bag I don't belong in. I look to a positive, constructive future."

She said her new name is Jessica—she won't reveal her new last name for the sake of privacy—and she is getting medical help to remove the "X" etched into her forehead five years ago as a sign of allegiance to Manson.

Miss Share, an orphan in France before coming to this country, served 3½ years in prison, but not in connection with the Manson murders. She was convicted of taking part in an Aug. 21, 1971, holdup of a Hawthorne gun store in an abortive effort to get weapons for breaking Manson out of jail.

"Time moves on and I haven't stood still," said Miss Share in the conference at the Beverly Hills office of her attorney, Richard Hirsch.

"I don't look to the past, I look to now and the future," she said. She was uncharged in the trial that sent Manson and three women co-defendants to prison for life.

Miss Share spoke of her ambition to write and sing and to obtain her son from the undisclosed Southern California foster parents with whom he is living.

Miss Share wore a conservative dark green turtleneck sweater and tan pants when she met reporters. Her hair was nearly waist length. She spoke softly and seemed composed.

Up to the government, Americans feel

A duty to provide for the older folks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An overwhelming majority of Americans of all ages say the government has a duty to provide for older people at a level allowing them to live comfortably, says a survey conducted for the National Council on the Aging.

The survey conducted by pollster Louis Harris also shows that an even larger majority of those who do the hiring and firing say most employers discriminate against older people.

Thirty-seven per cent of the retired people surveyed said they did not retire out of choice; 31 per cent said they would like to work again.

But the strongest reaction came in the area of the government's responsibility to improve the conditions and social status of people over 65, the report said.

Ironically, those under age 65, 81 per cent, feel more strongly about this than do those over 65, 70 per cent.

"Not only should the government provide income for older, retired people, the public feels, it should provide them with enough income to live comfortably," the report said.

"By 76 to 19 per cent, the public agreed that 'No matter how much a person earned during his working years, he should be able to have enough money to live on comfortably when he's older and retired.'" the report said.

An even bigger majority, 97 per cent, said social security payments to the elderly should increase automatically as the cost of living rises. There was no support for arbitrary limits on this increase.

The study also reported that 81 per cent of those surveyed agree that the federal government has the responsibility to use general tax revenues to help support older people.

Eighty-six per cent agreed that, "Nobody should be forced to retire because of age, if he wants to continue working and is still able to do a good job." But 80 per cent agreed that, "Most employers discriminate against older people and make it difficult for them to find work." Actor Frederic March is dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fredric March, the magnetic actor renowned for his film portrayal of a returning World War II GI adjusting to peacetime America in "The Best Years of Our Lives," is dead at 77.

Equipped with physical charm and intelligence, March earned two Oscars during a 40-year career on the stage and screen.

Death came Monday at Mt. Sinai Hospital, where he had been treated on and off for more than a year and was most recently admitted April 5. His agent said he died of cancer.

On the stage in Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey into Night," March portrayed a man alternately loving and miserly who achieved material success at a tragic price to himself and his family.

But March was more than a big box office success. He also was considered one of the country's finest actors, winning Academy Awards for "The Best Years of Our Lives" and the horror film, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

He shared his personal and professional life with actress Florence Eldridge, whom he married in 1927 and who survives. She costarred with him and they spent hours poring over scripts and discussing acting technique. They lived in semiretirement, in Beverly Hills and on a 40-acre farm in New Milford, Conn.

In his early film days, the tall, dark-haired March was often cast as a debonair leading man, but took a startlingly different tack in 1932 with "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

He often was considered the archetypal American family man caught in the crises of modern life. An example was March's Willy Loman in the film version of "Death of a Salesman," about a salesman trying to preserve desperate illusions about himself and his family.

The son of a Racine, Wis., manufacturer, March graduated from high school at 16. Though his ambition was to become a banker, he went to war and became one of the youngest lieutenants in the U.S. Army in World War I.

An interest in dramatics and oratory in college overtook March after he was stricken with appendicitis. While convalescencing, the idea of acting grew on him and he forsook the teller's counter for the stage.

His first role on Broadway was in a mob scene for the David Belasco production of "Deburau."

"I knew I wasn't a trained actor and when I was given a chance to join a stock company in the West, I took it," he said.

While playing the lead in a Los Angeles production of "The Royal Family," March became intrigued with the new talking pictures and decided to give them a try. His first talkie was "The Dummy."

After a decade in Hollywood, he returned intermittently to the stage, appearing in such Broadway hits as "The Skin of Our Teeth," "A Bell for Adano," "An Enemy of the People" and "Autumn Garden."

Provides loans to pay mortgages

House bill could save homes for jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a House-passed bill claim it could help 300,000 families from losing their homes by providing federal loans to jobless homeowners unable to meet mortgage payments.

The legislation, passed 321 to 21 Monday in the House, would make loans of up to $250 a month available to help defray mortgage payments. The federal help could run as long as two years.

Sponsors said the bill is intended to prevent a rash of mortgage foreclosures from the nationwide recession and the widespread unemployment it has created.

Government economists say that mortgage foreclosure rates are rising but that the worst impact is expected this summer. That's because serious increases in mortgage delinquencies tend to lag behind increases in unemployment by up to six months, the economists say.

The nationwide jobless rate in March was 8.7 per cent.

To qualify for loans under the proposal, a homeowner would have to demonstrate that he could not make mortgage payments because he lost his job or had suffered a reduction in income, and that the payments were at least two months delinquent.

A total of $500 million would be authorized for the program, which would be run by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Similar legislation is awaiting action in the Senate.

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, the floor manager, said the program would only be temporary and that no new loans under it could be made after July 1, 1976.

Ashley said the loans would be repaid at 8 per cent interest, but that the interest would not start until after the final federal assistance payment was made.

Terms for repaying the loans would be flexible and determined by the HUD secretary, he said. Ashley said the program would operate similarly to the existing federal college student loan program.

The legislation was supported by members of both parties. Rep. Garry E. Brown, R-Mich., a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee which authored the bill, said he endorsed the proposal even though it would be "an administrative headache" to carry out.

"No one views this as a panacea," he said. "But we are attempting to alleviate the pain of adverse economic conditions."

A homeowner must actually reside in his home to qualify for a federal loan under the proposal.

The program represents the first time since the Great Depression that Congress has moved to protect the jobless from mortgage foreclosures.

In 1933, Congress created the Home Owners Loan Corp. to refinance mortgages already in default at a time when foreclosures reportedly were running at a rate of nearly 1,000 a day.

Father sues Cher Bono, 2 magazines

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Entertainer Cher Bono and two national magazines have been sued for $4 million by her father, who alleges recent articles have invaded his privacy, officials say.

John Sarkisian said in his Superior Court suit filed Monday that the articles referred to unsavory, past aspects of his private life whereas he now lives an "exemplary, virtuous and honorable life."

Sarkisian's suit made specific note of an article in the March 17 issue of Time magazine which referred to him as a "compulsive gambler and later a heroin addict."

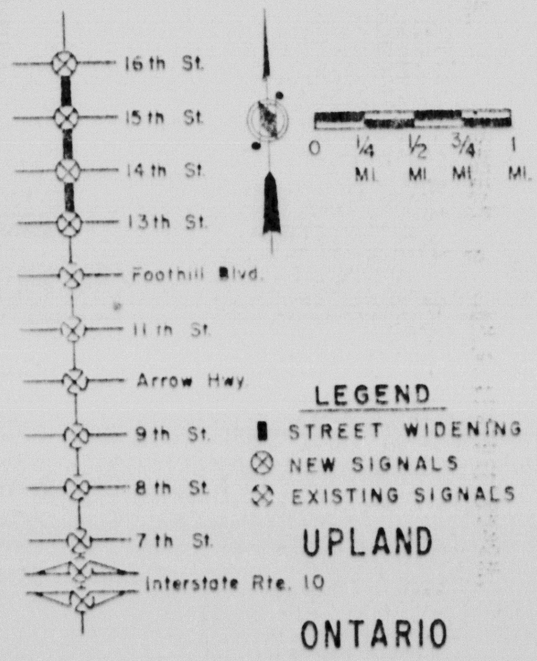
CITY PROJECT NO. 3207

MOUNTAIN AVENUE

BETWEEN
INTERSTATE 10 AND 16TH STREET
IN THE CITY OF UPLAND



The plan for which approval is being requested is the same as that presented at the Public Hearing held March 31, 1975 before the City Council.

The project will include the following improvement work: widening the Freeway off-ramps from single to double lane width; modifying the existing signal systems at the intersections with 7th Street, 8th Street, 9th Street, Arrow Highway and 11th Street by adding new signal heads and standards, pedestrian signals, left turn phases and left turn traffic signal lanes; installing new traffic signal and safety lighting systems at the intersections with 13th Street, 14th Street, 15th Street and 16th Street; interconnecting the twelve intersection signal systems between the Freeway ramps and 16th Street, which includes Foothill Blvd., to a central master traffic control system to be located at the Upland City Hall; installing electronic speed warning system signs; widening existing narrow roadway sections on the east side of Mountain Ave. between 13th Street and 16th Street and on the west side south of 14th Street to a full four lane width; constructing a center landscape barrier island from south of 13th Street to 16th Street, and landscaping the new left turn Islands at the intersections from 8th Street to 11th Street.

Existing right of way is adequate throughout the project and therefore no additional right of way will be required.

The project will be fully financed with Federal funds and gas tax funds, and therefore no assessments will be made on any properties as a result of this improvement.

The proposed construction will generally improve traffic conditions and the aesthetic quality of the Mountain Ave. corridor between the Freeway and the north project limit of 16th Street.

It is expected that the work will start in July, 1975 and will be fully complete on or before July, 1976.

Design plans for the proposed project, including Environmental Document (Draft Negative Declaration) and information presented at the Public Hearing, may be reviewed and discussed with a representative of the City Engineering Department at the City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, California.

ESSA group to reorganize

The District Advisory Committee (DAC) of Pomona schools' Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Project will hold a reorganizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Education Center board room.

At the same time, ESAA program director Philip H. Morgan Jr., and two members of his staff will conduct a Project SMILE get acquainted night in the Education Center auditorium.

Project SMILE provided an opportunity for ESAA students to trade parents for a weekend. These students and their parents are invited to the meeting Tuesday.

The purpose of the DAC meeting is to prepare for the district's reapplication for ESAA project funding for 1975-76.

Pomona received its first ESAA federal grant of $1.3 million this year. The 1975-76 application will propose a $3.7 million grant request expanded to include bilingual programs and a Natural Science Career Education Project.

ESAA's purpose, the reduction of minority group isolation, is achieved through projects involving the history and culture of minority groups, individualized math and reading programs, staff development and parental involvement.

Almanac for today

Today in History
By Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 15, the 105th day of 1975. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln died in a Washington boarding house across the street from Ford's Theater, where he had been shot the night before by John Wilkes Booth.

On this date—

In 1638, English settlers arrived at what is now New Haven, Conn.

In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1861, President Lincoln called out militia to suppress the Southern Confederacy.

In 1945, President Franklin Roosevelt was buried at the Roosevelt family home at Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1959, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arrived in Washington to begin a goodwill tour of the United States.

In 1967, a jury in Chicago found Richard Speck guilty in the slaying of eight student nurses in July, 1966.

Ten years ago: Washington sources said sites near Hanoi were being prepared for surface-to-air protective missiles.

Five years ago: Mobs in Amman, Jordan, burned the U.S. Cultural Center and attacked the U.S. Embassy.

One year ago: A military coup in the West African country of Niger overthrew the government of President Hamani Diori.

Today's birthday: The former president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, A. Philip Randolph, is 86.

Thought for today: A friend is, one might say, a second self — Cicero, Roman statesman, 106-43 B-C.

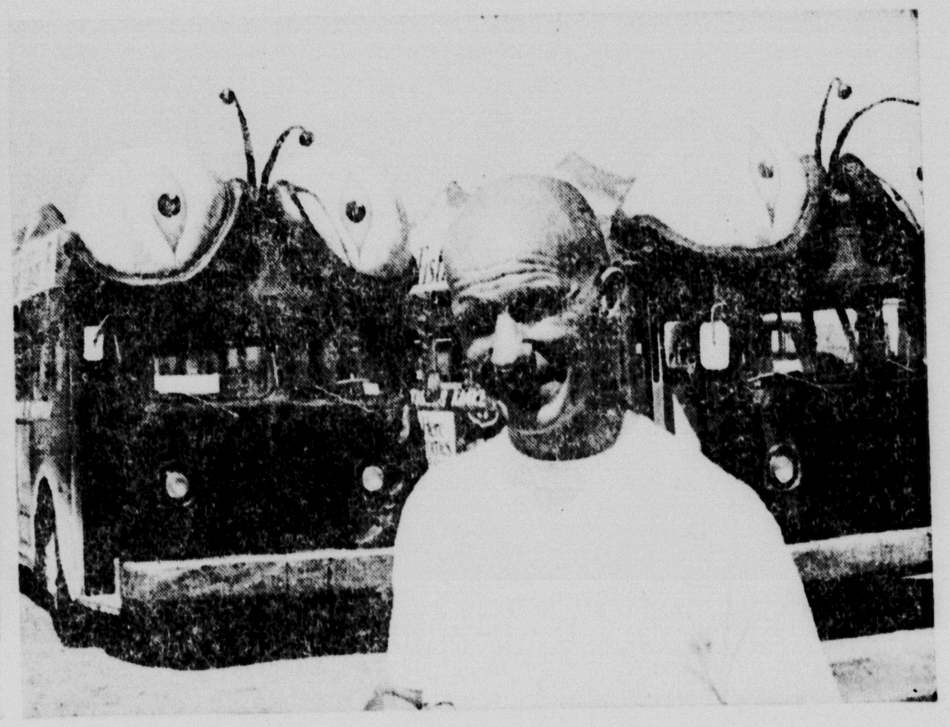
Four ideas on Public Transportation some cities could use right away.

Don Margerum, Woodland Hills, California
The "Drive Your Neighbors To Work And Get A Free Mini-Bus" Plan

Here's how it works: The city invests in a fleet of mini-buses, and then offers them—free of charge—to any person who agrees to drive his neighbors to and from work. The mini-bus driver collects fares from his passengers. When he has made up the cost of the bus in fares collected, the bus is his—free and clear. The driver gets a mini-bus. His neighbors get a convenient ride to work. And the city gets a few cars off the road.



Jack Haberstroh, San Diego, California
The "And Now, A Bus From Our Sponsor" Plan

Jack knows for sure this plan works, because he's already done it. A few years ago, Jack bought a couple of buses and gave rides to the students at San Diego State College. He charged the students nothing; yet, he made money on the deal. How? Simple. Jack financed his buses by selling advertising space. Jack's buses were covered inside and out with ads. He even played radio commercials (along with popular music) on a tape deck.

Carl Bold, Villa Park, Illinois
The "Feeder Bus" Plan

Why not take a bus to the bus?, suggests Carl. Set up a network of feeder buses, to carry passengers to the main bus and train lines. At no charge. Virtual "door to door" service would encourage people to leave their cars home and take public transportation. Feeder lines would be paid for by increased revenues on the main transit lines.

William Shea, Dallas, Texas
The "Validated Non-Parking" Plan

Most merchants validate parking. So why can't they validate non-parking? Bill thinks merchants should give out public transit stamps to their customers. These stamps could then be traded for discounts on buses and subways.

These ideas are among the nearly 30,000 ideas on Public Transportation submitted to us at Atlantic Richfield Company. It's not our intention to endorse ideas. Our objective since the beginning has been simply this: To get you thinking about Public Transportation. And from the ideas we've been getting, lots of you are.

All ideas submitted become public property without compensation and any restriction on use or disclosure.

Bridge

His insurance saves hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Some insurance plays aren't guaranteed to work. They are just there to insure against some bad break.

South looks over dummy and counts 11 top tricks. A 12th will develop if hearts break 3-3. Are there any ways to collect 12 against an even break in that suit?

One way is to draw trumps and duck a club to rectify the count for a possible squeeze. Then you win the second diamond in dummy, discard your last diamond on the club ace, ruff a club, lead your last trump and smile happily if it turns out that the man with four hearts also held five clubs or five diamonds.

A slightly better play is to take out some heart-spade insurance. You start by playing two rounds of trumps. Then cash your king of hearts, lead a heart to dummy's ace and a third heart back toward your hand.

If both opponents follow, you can draw the last trump and claim your slam. This time East can ruff, but if he does you still wrap your slam up. He will have used his last trump. Later on you will discard a diamond from dummy on your queen of hearts and avoid a diamond loser.

Of course, if East doesn't ruff you get to ruff your fourth heart and make your slam that way.

Reading store

Originally a magazine was a storehouse, not a periodical. "The Gentleman's Magazine", introduced to the public in 1731, was the first publication to use the word in its new meaning, stating in its introduction that the publication was intended to "store up" a collection of various subects, "as in a magazine."

A very old compliment

When a housewife buys a spool of "50 denier" thread, she is paying Julius Caesar an indirect compliment. Caesar introduced the coin "denarius" or "denier" into France. King Francis I established the weight of this tiny coin 1500 years later as the standard measurement of his budding silk industry.

Today, denier is a number system to describe the fineness of yarn: the higher the number, the thicker the yarn.

The modern pneumatic, or "air," tire that cushions the bumps in the road to give us a more comfortable ride in our automobiles is made up of several layers of rubber and rubber-coated fabric strengthened with steel wire.

To make a tire, the tiremaker wraps several layers, or plies, of rubber-coated fabric and steel wire around a drum-shaped cylinder.

Next, he fastens rubber rims, or beads, to the edges which hold the tire on the wheel.

Then come thick, flat ribbons of rubber used to make the tread (the part that touches the ground) and the sidewalls that support the tire.

When the tire is slipped from the drum, it looks like a small rubber barrel.

The tire is given its final shape by heating it in a tire-shaped mold that looks like a big waffle iron with a design in it.

An air bag inside the tire is inflated, forcing the rubber, softened by the heat, into every corner of the mold.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Recreation plan taking shape to curb Chino violence

An ambitious plan for a recreational program to keep barrio youths off the street was unveiled at a meeting of the Chino Community Action Council Monday night.

There was also continued discussion of alleged police harassment during the three-hour meeting attended by a crowd of 130 persons in a hall at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

The council, which has been seeking methods of eliminating gang warfare and violence in the barrio, voted unanimously in favor of the proposed recreational program.

Members also decided to bypass the city's Recreation Commission and take the proposal directly to the Chino City Council. The Rev. Manuel Guillen, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church and developer of the plan, said he would attempt to place it on an upcoming council agenda.

Cost of the program, which involves converting the old GI Cafe at Fifth and D streets into a recreation center, could be anywhere from $25,000 to $45,000, according to Father Guillen.

The cost depends on whether the center would be open five or seven days a week, and on how many full-time employes would be hired.

Exactly where the money would come from was not clear. Council member George Gonzales said the Recreation Commission would "foot part of the bill, but not the whole bill." It was suggested council members might have to stage some fund-raising events.

Father Guillen said his plan called for five full-time workers, including a director, assistant director, recreation supervisor, arts and crafts supervisor and a secretary; plus volunteers. Salaries would range from $500 per month for the secretary to $900 for the director.

Center employes should be bilingual, have at least a high school diploma, and have some knowledge of "Chicano history and culture," he stated.

Cost of renting the vacant GI Cafe would be around $250 per month, with utilities as an added expense. The center would be open five or seven days, from 1 to 9 p.m. Activities might include handball, soccer and boxing.

The city would provide needed equipment, according to council members, but proposals for insurance and fringe benefits for employes have yet to be worked out.

Several persons at the meeting debated whether the center should be open later than 9 p.m. "It should be open the hours when trouble might develop, meaning after 9, especially for older boys," said Daniel Gil.

Some parents disagreed, saying the purpose was to keep youngsters occupied for a while, and then to get them home. They were referring to younger boys, however.

Although the center was proposed mainly for Mexican-American youths, one parent said, "How about the Anglo boys? They can come over and meet our boys. They should not be excluded."

Meanwhile, the issue of alleged police harassment was raised again. Charges of Mexican-americans being harassed were aired at a lengthy meeting last week.

Rudy Perchez of the Chino Sinners, barrio youth gang, asked whether the council had "finished talking about police harassment."

Council chairman Martin Salgado reminded him that "harassment comes from both sides. If there is harassment by the police department, we'll see that it's stopped. We are working with police on this issue."

Chino Police Officer Ed Acosta admitted there is harassment. "But we all have to give a little — work together."

Acosta said he has worked the barrio for a number of years, mainly in East Los Angeles, and "I don't ask anyone to like a cop. But I won't be bought or sold — it's been tried."

The problem, according to several Sinners who spoke, is one policeman may be fair, but many others are "set in their ways." Youths who get arrested later have trouble getting jobs, they complained.

"You (Acosta) say you're O.K.," said Manny Martinez. "But I don't know that."

Victor Loza, another youth, charged Acosta cannot speak for the entire police force. He continued to repeat himself, as chairman gaveled him down. Salgado finally cut off the discussion because Loza would not stop talking.

Later, Acosta said he speaks for Chief Frank Meehan and the force, but not for every individual officer.

As at previous meetings, several parents sharply criticized the young gang members. One woman, speaking in Spanish, said the youths have "no respect for anyone. You wonder if that is the way they treat their parents. This is a community meeting — you should have two chances to speak and that's it. If you're out of order, you should be cut off."

GROWERS DISPLAY PLANTS

Small merchants ask end to display ban in Pomona

A spokesman for several small businessmen appealed to the Pomona City Council Monday night for relief from a city ordinance they claim is driving them out of operation.

Floyd Johnson, who owns a furniture business at 1191 S. Garey Ave., told the council that a city ordinance banning the display of furniture in front of his business has cut his sales by over 50 per cent in the last month.

"Many small merchants rely on people seeking their merchandise. Some of us just won't be here in 30 days if this continues," said Johnson. He said he was speaking for himself and seven other new or used furniture businesses.

The ordinance in question was approved by the council some three years ago, but has only been aggressively enforced during the past month through the efforts of additional city personnel hired under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Basically, the ordinance prohibits the outdoor display of merchandise within 25 feet of the property line, and entirely bans the display of used merchandise, according to City Atty. Patrick Sampson.

The ordinance, which was enacted to prevent the cluttering of commercial property frontages, does make exceptions for new and used car dealers, nurseries, outdoor restaurants and newsstands.

The council was sympathetic to Johnson's apceal, agreeing that the ordinance should be reviewed.

By law, however, ordinances dealing with zoning matters must be considered by the city Planning Commission before the council may take action.

The item was, therefore, referred to the commission by unanimous vote.

In other business, the council approved the re-allocation of approximately 25 CETA positions. Fifteen of the positions will be used to cleanup and remove weeds from public areas and vacant lots, while eight of the positions are designated for use by community based agencies.

The positions are among the approximately 200 CETA positions previously approved by the council.

In a related item dealing with the CETA program, Ken Stewart, speaking on behalf of the Community Advisory Council, told the council that recent meetings with the city staff had cleared up some of the misunderstandings community based agencies had about the program.

The community Advisory Council is composed of several community social service agencies. The group had previously expressed concern over the city's policies in allocating CETA positions to local agencies.

The presentation of a citizens' petition for the paving of an alley in the block bounded by Fourth and Huntington streets and Mission and Hamilton boulevards prompted a general policy discussion concerning the city's participation in such projects.

City Engineer Ed James explained that under a 1968 council action, the city assesses property owners 20 cents per foot for the improvement of alleys, with the city picking up the balance of the improvement costs.

With current improvement costs running at nearly 80 cents per foot, the city is therefore liable for approximately 75 per cent of the cost of the improvements.

James noted that this has not created problems in the recent past, since most property owners have been reluctant to seek the improvements at any cost to themselves.

Councilman Charles Bader questioned the propriety of the city paying any alley improvement costs in view of the fact that property owners are assessed the full cost of such projects as sidewalks, curb and gutter and similar improvements.

The council took no action on the petition and referred the matter to the city staff for new policy recommendations.

By a 4-1 vote the council approved retaining a redevelopment consultant for preparation of a new agreement with the Pomona Development Co. concerning the proposed United California Bank building at Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard.

The consultant, from the Los Angeles firm of Urban Projects Inc., will be paid $50 per hour for work performed.

Councilman Adrian Wright voted against the action because of his disenchantment with the firm's recently released study of redevelopment in Pomona.

Woman who pulled gun on L.V. police sent to prison

An Ontario woman, who was wounded by a La Verne policeman last November, has been sentenced to state prison for felonious assault on a police officer.

Constance Kaufman, 38, was sentenced by Pomona Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Plau, who denied her application for probation. Mrs. Kaufman faces a term of from one to 18 years. Plau gave her credit for the 171 days she spent in jail prior to sentencing.

Mrs. Kaufman pleaded guilty to the charge earlier this month when she appeared before him.

Mrs. Kaufman was shot through one shoulder after pointing a .25-caliber automatic pistol at Officers Paul Allen and John Ortega after Ortega stopped her for a traffic violation. Her weapon misfired, officers said, and Allen shot her. Ortega had followed her from La Verne into a shopping center in San Dimas and Allen arrived a few moments later as his backup.

Police later said Mrs. Kaufman was wanted on warrants which charged her with driving while under the influence of drugs, narcotics and destroying jail property.

She was confined in the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center until she recovered from the wound.

South Hills center appeals decision cutting off funds

The South Hills Neighborhood Service Center in Pomona is awaiting a ruling on its appeal of a decision that would cut off funding from the Greater Los Angeles Community Action Agency (GLACAA).

The appeal was made Monday in Los Angeles to the GLACAA board of directors by Ken Stewart, director of the service center.

Stewart is seeking reversal of a decision by the GLACAA Area Council 1 in Pomona to cease funding of the service center in the coming fiscal year.

The service center, one of the oldest social service agencies in the area, had received $44,000 in funding last year.

Stewart said it will be several days before a decision on his appeal is announced.

He called the decision to cease funding of the service center "abitrary" and "without justification."

Ornetta Barber, a GLACAA Area Council 1 staff member, said that the service center was one of several programs not recommended for funding by the GLACAA evaluation committee.

She said that the cuts were necessitated because the area council suffered a $30,000 cutback in funds for all programs.

In addition, she said, the Area Council believed that since the service center receives funding from other sources the GLACAA funds should be allocated to other agencies more dependent on GLACAA funding. The service center offers job placement, a free health clinic, child care, emergency social service and also operates a free hot lunch program for senior citizens.

Time running out on scout house

The Boy Scouts need another donation. This time it is to save the old Scout House at 800 S. Caswell St., Pomona, and they have only 15 days to do it.

The building, said to be 61 years old, is situated on the extreme northwest tip of Washington Elementary School grounds, and unless the scouts purchase the land, it will be demolished.

May 1 is the deadline established by the school district.

Mrs. Helen Fontaine, wife of Art Fontaine, Boy Scout Troop 112 committee Chairman, said today she has succeeded in obtaining three appraisals of the property. Two were required by the school district.

The 26 boys in Troop 112, which is sponsored by Pomona Moose Lodge, use the Scout House.

"It will cost us between $1,000 and $1,100 to purchase the 40 by 44 square feet of land," said Mrs. Fontaine. "But we have to hurry."

With school board consent to purchase the property, and the required appraisals in hand, their big need now is money.

She asked that donations be sent to Boy Scout Troop 112, Pomona Moose Lodge, 300 S. San Antonio Ave., Pomona, in care of Art or Helen Fontaine.

Anyone wishing additional information may contact Mrs. Fontaine at 629-5413 after 2 p.m.

If the purchase is made, the scouts will return to their Scout House for their regular meetings. Since March 11, they have been meeting in a room at Washington school.

School administrators and the school board were warned by county counsel Elaine Canty that since the old cabin occupies district-owned property it falls under state earthquake safety laws.

If the scouts fail to purchase the tip of land, the Scout House will be demolished along with pre-Field Act portions of old Washington school.

Troop 112 Scoutmaster Harold L. Wood of Pomona said he didn't think legislators who framed laws requiring safer schools ever intended that the Scout House be knocked down.

In tracing the history of the Scout House, Woods said older residents remembered it was started in 1914 by a troop of scouts, later known as Troop 12. They set hand-hewn logs into massive pillars of field stone and mortar to form a simple 300-square-foot, oblong room.

In about 1933, Wood said, another room of equal size was added, and about that time the entire building was stuccoed.

Since 1930, the Scout House has been the home of Boy Scout Troop 112.

Turning 'fine print' into basic English

A long-standing target of consumer advocates has been the "fine print," the legal jargon that only a crew of Philadelphia lawyers can decipher, in insurance policies.

"According to a scientific scale of readability, the standard auto policy is actually more difficult to read and understand than Einstein's theory of relativity," says Herbert S. Dengnberg, former Pennsylvania insurance commissioner.

The target is beginning to waver. Not only consumerists but concerned spokesmen for the industry itself are coming to believe that insurance policies can, and must, be written in plain, simple language. A number of companies and a number of state insurance departments have begun taking steps in that direction.

The Pennsylvania insurance department, for example, has promulgated a rule that automobile insurance policies must be "understandable to a person of average intelligence and education. Legal sounding words should be avoided . . ."

Florida has proposed minimum, uniform readability standards for health policies, and the Illinois insurance department has asked a governor's advisory board to take up the issue of automobile policy simplification.

At the federal level, "truth in insurance" legislation is being sponsored in Congress by Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.).

Some industry skeptics contend, however, that simplifying insurance policies is not as simple a matter as it may appear. Many parts of policies are governed by state laws and regulations, they point out. In some cases, the exact language is prescribed. If an insurance company chooses to use different language it could run into conflict with state laws and the courts might declare portions of the policy invalid.

Also, a policy is a legal contract, and over the years a body of law based on court interpretations has grown up. Legal and technical terms used in insurance policies have assumed certain fixed meanings. "Simplified" policy language can actually be harder to interpret than precise, legal terminology.

In short, they argue, if simplified policies are desired, simplified state laws and regulations may have to precede them.

Everyone agrees, however, that it should be possible to remove some of the "heretofores," "whereases" and other legalistic gobbledygook from insurance policies and make sentences shorter without changing their meanings. This seems to be the growing trend.

Junior basketball

In what is expected to be the largest and most far-reaching youth athletic undertaking in this country, the NBA Players Association and the YMCAs of the United States will jointly sponsor junior basketball leagues for boys and girls from the ages of 10 to 18.

"This is the first time professional athletes as a group have become so closely involved in a youth sports program," says the Boston Celtics' Paul Silas, president of the NBA Players.

Notes Belford V. Lawson Jr., president of the National council of the YMCAs of the USA, "Since the YMCA invented basketball (Dr. James A Naismith at the YMCA's Springfield College in 1891), it is appropriate that the YMCA join with the NBA Players in establishing this league for the nation's youngsters."

The program is scheduled to start this fall with projects aimed at organizing 30,000 teams the first year, including coed teams where feasible. The ultimate goal is 100,000 teams involving one million youngsters. The plan is to utilize schools, churches, community centers, parks and other recreational places as well as YMCAs.

All youngsters who sign up, it is pointed out, will have an opportunity to play, and selections will not be made on a competitive tryout basis.

Wine boon

California vineyards produce some of the world's finest grapes and California vintners produce some of the world's finest wines.

The wine in the years immediately ahead, the experts says, is going to get better and the prices are going to be down.

All of this comes about through the tremendous new plantings of wine grapes throughout the state's growing areas. Much has been said that the newcomers will rue the day they planted because there will be a wine glut. There is strong evidence to offset the pessimism.

California wine, like all wine around the world, is basically a blend with a given percentage of the advertised varietal in the blend. In the years past, the wineries frequently turned to the the Thompson seedless grape — a table grape — for inclusion in the wines instead of adding more of the more expensive varietal grapes. It worked fine.

Now, however, there are more and more of the prime varietals available and it is said these will go into the new California wines instead of Thompsons giving the buyer a better product. With current production levels it should be a better price, too.

Leaving elderly to the wolves

The Medicare program is once again entering into the news with new recommendations by the Ford Administration, "offering" the elderly new hardships with a 20 per cent cutback in their program. This can be viewed as reasonable from the administration's side because of the difficult recessionary period we are presently in.

But how about in view of the initial concept of why Medicare was begun? Was it not to help the elderly people receive adequate medical care without financial hardships? Was it not that all elderly, regardless of financial position, be allowed equal care funded by the government because private insurance could not meet the need?

Well, where are we now? According to "Changing Times," "The elderly now pay more out-of-pocket expenses for health care than their counterpart did in the years before there was Medicare." And "One way or another retired persons should probably supplement Medicare coverage with some kind of gap filler."

It appears that once again the elected officials have gained their votes from the elderly and in achieving that are now leaving them to the wolves while the money they save from this program will be processed towards more votes from the unemployed by shifting money into that fund. Is this not once again political roulette with the public's head at the end of the barrel?

With Medicare now merely a few years behind us and the trend readily visible as to less and less coverage, has anyone stopped to think what a national health system, based on Medicare as has been presented, may become?

Under this system will it be that within 10 years once again all citizens will need private insurance to supplement what the government cannot afford or will the government just continue to devaluate the dollar until there is no substance left to trade in the world market. Private enterprise, which includes the field of medicine, appears to have the capability of surviving longer than government interference.

Is it not really a minority of the citizens who require supplemental care, the remainder of us preferring to have free choice of the market place, and food, clothing, medicine, etc.? I, for one, would like to retain my individuality and not be subject to government whims.

What could be more touching than a full medical program, such as Medicare, to be restricted at a time as this when the inflation is vastly stripping the elderly of their previously adequate retirement income and giving them the added burden of medical expense simply because the government fails. Please let's be fair, but government officials I prefer you promise me nothing than offer me false hopes. — Donald J. Huber, M.D., Pomona.

JACK ANDERSON

Jackie made even Onassis wince

WASHINGTON — History will not likely forget Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, the tragic first lady of the 1960s and jet set queen of the 1970s, who is certainly one of the world's most fascinating women.

To learn more about the woman behind the beauty and grace, we have broken through the aura of aloofness and remoteness she has created about herself. We have spoken to intimates who previously had been silent. We have had access to some of her personal papers.

Jacqueline Onassis' favorite insignia is the dollar sign. She has exquisite but expensive tastes.

Both of her late husbands, John F. Kennedy and Aristotle S. Onassis, were millionaires who could afford to indulge the lovely Jackie. But according to intimates, both complained bitterly about her extravagance.

These intimates describe her as a "compulsive shopper" who lavishes money on clothes, jewelry, art, antiques and other objects that catch her eye.

Her prodigal spending, say our sources, caused more than one quarrel over money during her marriage to Kennedy. Mary Gallagher, who kept the First Family's personal accounts, reports that Jackie spent $105,446.14 during her first year in the White House.

Of this, more than $40,000 went for clothes. There was one bill alone for $4,000 from Givency of Paris. She spent the rest for food, liquor, jewelry, art, beauty treatments and the like. Incidentally, she paid only for private entertaining out of her account. All the bills for official soirees were picked up by the government.

Yet the President's complaints, apparently, made little impression on her. For the following year, she ran up $121,461.61 in expenses. She was spending, in other words, more than the President's $100,000 salary.

When Jackie married Aristotle Onassis, she drew a $30,000 monthly allowance and was permitted to charge purchases at fashionable stores. She quickly began running up shopping bills that were startling even by the shipping tycoon's expensive standards.

Ari complained to intimates that he got one $5,000 bill for messenger service and another $6,000 bill for the care and feeding of Jackie's pets. Speaking for Jackie, aide Nancy Tuckerman called this bills "unrealistic." But she was unwilling to discuss Jackie's finances with us.

Jackie also hired the celebrated decorator, Billy Baldwin, to rearrange the furnishings aboard the yacht Christina and their house on the Greek island of Skorpios. Baldwin took one look inside the yacht and pronounced it "the epitome of vulgarity and bad taste."

But Onassis, according to his associates, was a fastidious man who didn't like someone changing things around. He wouldn't permit Baldwin to touch the yacht but agreed to let him redecorate the Skorpios house.

When Ari discovered that Baldwin had installed two handsome but useless TV sets in the house, the old tycoon was so furious he refused to pay the last bill, our sources say. Apparently, the island not only has no TV reception but the sets were shipped to Greece on a rival airline, Onassis-owned Olympic Airways.

Baldwin angrily denied the anecdote. "There's absolutely not a word of truth in it," he told us. But we have had access to the records, which show that Baldwin billed Onassis for $43,855.74. A payment of $27,609.89 was made on Nov. 28, 1968, followed by a second $10,000 payment on Feb. 10, 1969. But Onassis, according to our sources, refused to pay the $6,245.85 balance.

The biggest bill Jackie tried to pawn off on her husband was for $400,000 in legal expenses over a lawsuit involving freelance photographer Ronald Galella. She wrote warm notes to her attorney, Judge Simon Rifkind, during the litigation. A friend, to whom she showed the letters, recalls such lines as this one: "I am so glad that chivalry is not dead."

But when Rifkind submitted his bill, it went unpaid. Onassis was furious over the high charges. Associates say he put up $50,000 and told Jackie to pay the rest. But when the law firm sued, he relented and arranged a $235,000 settlement. He deposited the money in her account, and an hour later she wrote out a check. Rifkind declined comment.

Eventually, Onassis got fed up with Jackie's spending and transferred her account to his Monte Carlo office where he could keep a closer watch on it. Our sources say he reduced her allowance to $20,000 a month and cracked down on her charge accounts.

School-agers turning to drink

If I do not treat today's subject as seriously as some figure I should, let me explain. I grew up with a generation which heard that drinkin' whisky was the devil's own brew but we didn't pay much attention to what we heard.

During my early upbringing in Oklahoma there was no store-bought booze. You made it yourself or bought it from bootleggers, but to say that our state was "dry" is rather like saying that the stock market is not gambling, which of course it is.

And one time or another we had to taste it all. To our friends we'd even pretend to like it, except when we threw up, but one taste of each was usually enough to resolve any mystery and precancel any craving.

Today I hear young folks are taking bottles to school.

An official of the Massachusetts Public Health Department has reported "a recent dramatic and alarming rise in the incidence of alcoholism among teen-agers."

Massachusetts has 22 state alcohol detoxification centers, all of them reporting that "most new alcoholics are age 18."

The director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse says school-agers are turning from drugs to drink. Their survey of youngsters 11 to 18 shows that 92 per cent drink!

Vodka sales were up 11-13 per cent in 1974. Tequila consumption jumped 60 per cent. All booze, recession or no recession, sold in greater quantity than any year previous.

Now to the crux of this: Drinkers have been fooling themselves. I'm not moralizing; I'm talking pure economics. California's lawmakers have been conducting hearings on price support programs and fair trade laws. They're seeking to learn if more laws are necessary to insure equitbility in the marketplace. That state's attorney general has been evaluating advertising among other factors. An experiment was conducted about which you have heard little or nothing because of the people it indicts.

Vodka from the same vat was put in three different bottles. Three different price tags were hung on the bottles ranging from $3.25 to $5.25. The purchasers—seeing all three bottles of identical vodka—bought the most expensive one 15 to 1. The same experiment was tried with identical bourbon and with Scotch and almost invariably the most expensive one was chosen.

And by the way, expert witnesses, blindfolded, taste-tested the most popular, most advertised brands and the cheapest, and they could not tell the difference.

What this says is that Americans who would not have bought our $1-a-pint Oklahoma rotgut will purchase essentially the same thing with a fancier label and/or a higher price. They may imagine that a prestige name makes it good for you.

Respecting the resistance of today's enlightened school-agers to the blandishments of the mercenaries of the marketplace, I thought they'd want to know.

Just in jest

If I were to say that the average American is cruel, inhuman, sadistic, pitiless, ruthless, totally lacking in compassion, you would undoubtedly call me a liar. However, the fact remains I can prove it? Oh, I'll agree, we Americans react in horror at such things as the atrocities now taking place in South Vietnam. But to be brutally realistic, whether we realize it or not, cruelty is in the eye of the beholder. Otherwise, how would the proprietor of a San Francisco fish market be able to boil crabs in front of his store so that tourists can watch them wiggle?

Southeast Asia and Ford in '76

President Ford's response to that question about the U.S. commitment to Southeast Asia is strong evidence that he is pursuing a partisan instinct to make the military disaster in South Vietnam and Cambodia a campaign issue next year. This may be good short-term politics, but it raises ominous homefront possibilities.

Certainly the liberal Democratic Congress has drawn a hard line on the matter of additional aid to the Thieu and Lon Nol regimes. But when troops in the field take to their heels, abandoning an estimated $2 billion worth of military equipment, this Congress's refusal to allocate an additional $600 million to those regimes becomes a lesser "if" among many greater hypotheticals.

Indeed, the question asked the President at his news conference was baiting: in view of the imminent fall of South Vietnam to the Communists, he was asked, did Mr. Ford consider the loss of 55,000 American lives in that country a "waste"?

Ford, ever accommodating to the news media, took the bait, when a better course might have been to invoke an executive prerogative first exercised by Franklin Roosevelt — not to response to "iffy" questions asked by reporters.

In this case, the "ifs" abound, going back many years, covering four administrations and both major political parties:

—If the Kennedy administration had not made the first substantive commitment of American ground forces to Vietnam.

—If the liberal political-media claque had not been so certain in the early 1960s that South Vietnam could be stabilized against a Communist takeover by removing what they termed the "corrupt Diem regime" — which regime, as time went by, proved to be the last and only stable government the South Vietnamese people were to have (preceding the "stability" soon to be provided by their new Communist rulers).

—If, post-Diem, the Johnson administration, which was willing to send more than half a million fighting men to Vietnam, had been equally willing to carry out the lo[illegible] of that commitment with a comprehensive mili[illegible] policy aimed at winning a war, not a stalemate.

—If, in 1972, the Nixon administration, out of its desire to end U.S. troop involvement as a pre-election peace offering to American voters, had not accepted a ceasefire line that acknowledged the right of North Vietnamese troops to occupy South Vietnamese territory. And finally:

—If, even taking into account all these errors of policy and judgment, South Vietnam's president had not decided a month ago to withdraw his troops from the highlands, thereby precipitating a military rout.

All these "ifs" and more, tracing back even before the early 1960s, might be raised in a national fault-finding debate on the question of whether and why the lives of American fighting men were given in a cause that ultimately failed. And one more, provided by a President, who, in almost the same breath said that he was "not assessing blame on anyone."

Judge for yourself. "I don't think they were wasted," Ford told his questioner, "providing the U.S. had carried out the solemn commitments that were made in Paris. But when I see us not carrying through, it raises quite a different question."

This sounded very much like an opening shot in the Ford 1976 campaign for election. But if what has happened in South Vietnam and Cambodia is a policy, disaster of the first magnitude, what lessons there are to be learned from that tragedy about our dealings with the Communist world will not be gained through a partisan political bloodbath here at home.

"What is essential now," the President had said in his prepared speech given at San Diego, "is that we keep our nerve and our essential unity as a powerful but peaceloving nation."

He was on the right track there. We may hope that his raising of that "different question" later the same day is not the harbinger of yet another disaster for the West: an America so divided in recriminations over the past that it fails to develop strong future policies to meet a burgeoning military threat posed by Communism, not only in Southeast Asia but throughout the world.

ANN LANDERS

Miss Uppity may have good reason for shaking hands with left hand

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who was always pretty stuck on herself. We went to high school together. That was her reputation then and it's the same now.

One thing that really gripes me is that when Miss Uppity is introduced to someone, instead of shaking hands with her right hand she condescendingly extends her left hand and acts like she is doing you a big favor.

Will you please say a word about these people? Isn't this the height of arrogance? — Slightly Nauseated.

Dear S.N.: Not always. Some people have arthritis in their hands and one hand is in better shape than the other. Perhaps your old high school chum is one of those unfortunate people.

I can tell you from personal experience that after I've shaken a few hundred hands I would just love to substitute the left one and I DON'T have arthritis — so please refrain from making hasty judgments until you know all the facts.

Dear Ann Landers: I've always gotten along beautifully with my mother-in-law. I couldn't have asked for a better one. But I see a problem coming.

My husband and I are expecting our first baby. This will be the first grandchild and first great-grandchild in the family. My mother-in-law wants to know if I want to bring the baby to her home from the hospital so she can help out, or would I rather have her move into our aparmtnet for a week.

Ann, I'd appreciate all the help I can get, but she wants to handle the baby. What I need is someone to do the cooking and cleaning. I want to take care of the baby's needs myself.

Please tell me how to get the idea across tactfully. I don't want to ruin my relationship with my mother-in-law, but I DO want to be in charge of my first child when I bring him (or her) home from the hospital. — Quandried

Dear Q.: First, don't move into your mother-in-law's home. Ask her to come to yours. You will have much better control on your own turf.

Second, don't decide NOW who is going to do what. There will be enough chores involving the baby so that both you and your mother-in-law will be plenty busy. Keep things peaceful even if you have to give in a little. It will be worth it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been so furious for two weeks I've had a constant headache. Maybe if I write to you I'll feel better. Please tell me if I am right or wrong. From you, I'll accept any answer.

Our 17-year-old son is a very good kid. He has always worked summers and after school, saved his money and behaved himself. On his 18th birthday he made a down payment on a car. Two months later he lent the car to his buddy who is 19. The kid wanted to go downtown for pizza. He wrecked the car to the tune of $500.

The insurance company says OUR insurance must pay, not the boy who wrecked the car. We will have our rates raised because of this accident, plus we must pay the $100 deductible.

Shouldn't the boy's dad pay the $100? He flatly refuses — saying it was our son's fault for letting the kid have the car. Although these people are much better off financially than we are they refuse to accept any responsibility.

Am I wrong? Shouldn't that kid's dad have come up with the $100? We'd like your opinion. — Red With Rage In Franklin

Dear Red: You gloss right over that 19-year-old as if he was a kid in knee-britches. What's the matter with HIM that he doesn't accept the responsibility? If the young man had an ounce of decency he'd insist on paying the $100.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious-lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Lander's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

DR. FRANK MILLER

Leftover route poor economy for Rover

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since we have a rather large family, we usually have food left over. To save money, which we have to do right now, we'd like to feed our two dogs these leftovers. If our meals are balanced nutritionally for the family, and they are, is there any reason we couldn't satisfactorily feed our dogs this way? —A.K.

DEAR A.K.: The leftover route for Rover is poor economy, usually, for three related reasons. First, portions of the average balanced human diet may not be that appealing to the pooch's palate, i.e., salads and most vegetables. Second, leftovers are not usually as balanced as the initial meal since favorite portions of the meal are consumed entirely, leaving those leftovers without that initial nutritional balance. Finally, if you attempt to avoid this gap, you still end up with surpluses in some areas, deficiencies in others, and you've probably spent more moeny on the end result than you would have if you'd purchased a good dog food in the first place. Besides, it takes a nutritional expert to balance some of the needs of the dog. For example, over a long term it would be rare for human rations to contain the proper calcium-phosphorus balance for the canine.

DEAR DR. MILLER: An acquaintance of ours has kept a small monkey as a pet for a number of years. It must be, I feel, a child substitute for her. She gives it a tremendous amount of attention and care. I really feel it requires too much care, but my daughter is quite enthusiastic about getting a monkey as a pet. She is generally good with animals. What do you think about this? — H.B.

DEAR H.B.: It's true the time required to care for a pet primate adequately is prodigious. It generally approximates the care time required for an infant human. Unless the prospective owner is willing to spend most of his time "monkeying around," the relationship is usually unsatisfactory. In fact, as with most exotic mammals, the relationships usually do not work out well. For this and for other reasons including the protection of the species involved, before contemplating the acquisition of any exotic pet one should always investigate all aspects of care, demands on time and also local laws on the subject. (Increasingly, statutes make the keeping of these exotics illegal.)

Banks don't fall for own inducements

And art for a bank just promised me a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange) if I deposited $500.

This is not the first time they've tried to woo me into parting with my money. A few months ago, it was a popcorn popper for a new $1,000 savings account and a thermal blanket with dual controls for a $10,000 certificate.

Frankly, I'm delighted to see that banks have finally become realistic about the value of money.

The other day my husband and I went into the bank to float a loan for a new car.

The banker was pleased. "Fine," he said. "Now what do you have as collateral?"

We could hardly contain our excitement as we exchanged glances. "Mr. Farquardt, for the use of your $1,000 for one year . . . no fair taking it back before then . . . we are going to give you either a set of matching Cannon bath towels or a genuine cowhide billfold with a picture of Debra Paget, suitable for framing."

"You're kidding," he said.

"I told you he'd get choked up," I said nudging my husband. "Tell him the rest."

"If you let us have the money for two years without touching it, we'll throw in a Bonsai tree guaranteed to grow 1½ inches a year."

"Just a minute," said Mr. Farquardt. "The bank is not a discount house. It's a lending agency."

"Then what are all those cookbooks and dishes doing in the lobby?"

"That's just an incentive for people to deposit money."

"Wonderful, and we are offering you the same opportunity to lend it."

"I'm afraid that's quite impossible," he explained. "You have no car?"

"That's why we are borrowing the money."

"Your house?"

"You already own it. Look, Mr. Farquardt, this is our last offer. For the loan of $1,000 we will give you a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange)."

"What would I do with it?"

"The way we figure it," we said, "you're the only one in town with a pot to cook in."

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

A hernia doesn't heal by itself

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can a hernia heal?

DEAR READER — Not really. Hernias occur when some body part, such as a loop of bowel, slips through an opening that is caused by stretched or torn ligaments, tendons and muscles. The best example is the inguinal hernia. There is a hole in the lower abdominal wall where the cord to the testical passes through. This hole is well guarded by a complex arrangement of muscles and ligaments. When these are overstretched or even torn the hole is not so well guarded and becomes enlarged. Then a loop of bowel may slip through the opening into the scrotum along with the cord. Smaller hernias may be under the skin.

When the loop of bowel stays inside the abdomen there is no hernia, but the damaged muscles or stretched opening remain and the hernia can occur again any time.

When pressure is increased inside the abdominal cavity out pops the loop of bowel and the hernia occurs. This may occur with heavy lifting. A common factor in increased abdominal pressure is too much fat. The buildup of fat deposits may contribute to the hernia.

Now you can decrease the intra-abdominal pressure and in this way make it less likely the hernia will recur, but the muscle damage is still there. The only way the damaged muscle around the opening can be corrected is by surgery.

I believe that obesity has a lot to do with increasing abdominal pressure and contributing to the first tear through the muscles, causing the hernia. Obesity is well-known to contribute hernia of the stomach through the diaphragm (hiatal hernia).

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past 19 years I have had a nagging worry about my youngest son. He is 23 now. When he was 3 years old we found out that his heart was on the right side instead of the left. My pediatrician called it dextrocardia.

My son has grown up without a sign of illness. The doctor was always evasive about it, though, and I gave up asking about it years ago.

I would really appreicate it if you would tell me if dextrocardiac individuals have a normal life span, ruling out, of course, any other defects. I do remember the doctor saying that his spleen was in the proper area, whatever a spleen is.

DEAR READER—Most structutres in the body start out as paired organs, kidneys, lungs and eyes. The heart does too, and sometimes the right and left side of the heart simply get reversed. When this occurs, with no other defects in the heart or its connections to the arteries, it has no effect at all on the person's life or health.

Probably the only person affected is the doctor. And he may have some trouble if he doesn't already know that the heart is on the oppsite side. When he listens for the heart sounds on the left side he may be a bit confused.

I think you should simply forget about it. Apparently your son has been studied, and there is no evidence of any other defect, so he has as good a chance as other person to lead a normal and healthy life.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on hiatal hernia, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Hiatal hernia" booklet.

Dodgers reward their faithful fans

Marshall brilliant again

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers love their fans and the feeling is mutual.

Opening Night 1975 at Dodger Stadium Monday evening began as a tribute to the fans and it ended with the faithful roaring their approval as their heroes beat the dreaded Cincinnati Reds, 5-2 in a typical thriller.

A crowd of 45,502 customers — the largest for a Dodger home opener since 1964 — and a national TV audience saw the Dodgers do their thing to gain some revenge from Cincinnati after the Reds swept last week's three-game series in Ohio.

The night's festivities began on a high note with presentation of the National League championship rings to the Dodgers.

When champion rooter Frances Friedman threw out the first ball from the left field pavilion to Jimmy Wynn, the people's choice, the stage was set.

Wynn responded with a home run in the sixth inning and a run-producing double in the seventh to keep the pavilion fans chanting.

Doubles by Rick Auerbach, Davey Lopes and Bill Buckner netted the first two runs off of Cincinnati starter Jack Billingham in the third inning.

Ron Cey opened the fifth frame with a home run.

Meanwhile, lefthander Doug Rau held the Reds to two hits until Cincinnati finally drove him out with three consecutive hits in the seventh inning to cut the score to 4-2.

Relief ace Mike Marshall, who received the Cy Young Award before the game, came out of the bullpen to save Rau's win.

Marshall was at his best in the top of the eighth when the Reds loaded the bases with only one out. But Iron Mike struck out the dangerous Johnny Bench and retired Tony Perez on a force play.

The situation developed as a result of a controversial call at second base when umpire Frank Pulli ruled Pete Rose was safe when Auerbach dropped a relay throw from Lopes. The Dodgers contended Auerbach dropped the ball while trying to throw after recording the out.

"I thought we could pull it out when we had that break at second base," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson. "But Marshall had good stuff, especially that screwball."

"It's always a struggle when you face the Reds," Marshall, a loser in Cincinnati last week, said. "I really had my work cut out for me, but im tickled pink whenever I'm out there. There's no greater thrill than to face the best in the world at whatever you're doing."

The Dodgers were delighted to be back home after compiling a 2-4 record on the road during the opening week. The losses of shortstop Bill Russell and catcher Steve Yeager to injuries also dampened the spirits.

"It's not going to be easy to play without Russell and Yeager but we just have to do our best," Marshall said. "We have the feeling now that we realize it won't be easy. Everyone has to do the little extra."

Cey, who feels he has broken out of an early-season slump, added, "We haven't really played the type of game this club is capable of playing. Tonight's game was a little more like it. It's possible we peaked too early this year in spring training. For awhile, we were getting 10 to 15 hits every game."

"This win gives us a big lift after losing those three in Cincinnati by one run each," was Wynn's comment.

Don Sutton (1-0) will pitch against Cincy's Clay Kirby (0-0) in this evening's 7:30 p.m. game. Juan Marichal (0-1) and Fred Norman (0-1) are Wednesday's probables while Andy Messersmith (1-0) is slated to face Gary Nolan (0-1) in Thursday's 1:15 p.m. series finale.

DODGER DATA — Yeager is scheduled to arrive from Houston this morning for additional X-rays to determine his status. The preliminary diagnosis is a hairline fracture of the left femur. Estimates are he will be out for approximately eight weeks. The Dodgers won't determine his status until the final reports are in . . .

Rose celebrated his 34th birthday by saluting his friends in the left field pavilion with a bow. The fans responded by singing to their favorite target.

OUT BUT SAFE

Cincinnati's Pete Rose slides wide at second base but is ruled safe on a disputed call when umpire Frank Pulli said Dodger shortstop Rick Auerbach dropped the relay throw from Davey Lopes.

The calm before the storm

The Pomona schools are playing a waiting game.

They're not sure what they're going to do if the tax override does not pass on May 27.

According to the district school board, if the override fails to pass, all interscholastic sports activities in the Pomona school district will be eliminated in an effort to cut the budget.

When that was first announced, the athletic departments at the various schools cried, "You can't do that!"

Whether the school board will carry out its decision seems to be the big question. Some school officials have said they thought the chances of the override passing were very slim.

However, there hasn't been any activity yet in preparation for the elimination of sports.

"We're in limbo," stated Ganesha athletic director Gary Fulkerson, who has been the most outspoken A.D. in the district. "There are now two new members on the board, and I don't know what their views are on the subject.

"I've talked to a few people in the community," Fulkerson added, "and nobody really believes the board will carry through with it. They think the board will find some money, or maybe something else will happen. I haven't heard of any parent organizations being formed or anything of that sort."

An all-out drive?

Pomona athletic director Jay Craven doesn't think this is the right time to do anything about it. He figures to see an all-out drive by all the schools in the district in about three weeks.

"I expect to see all three high schools begin a push for votes," the first-year A.D. predicted. "They'll get their kids together and get them organized in hopes of getting them to get their parents out to vote. Those are the votes we need to pass it.

"However, I don't see it happening for about three weeks yet," he added. "It's too early yet. Everybody would burn themselves out too early, and then everyone would forget about it."

Craven is very optimistic that the board will do all it can if the override fails.

"The Pomona school district places sports high on its list of priorities," Jay revealed, "so if there's any way possible, they would try to retain sports."

There has already been three tax override elections in the valley, and two of them passed. The one that didn't pass was the Chaffey School District, and it's planning to cut back some of the coaching personnel in the athletic department.

The two that passed came out of the Claremont School District and the Bonita School District.

About the only thing anybody can do now is wait.

Player of the Week

College baseball coaches got a kick out of the size of Chaffey High's Anthony Munoz (6-5, 245 pounds) Monday at the Weekly baseball luncheon. Anthony was honored as one of the two Valley High School Players of the Week. The other was Rowland High's Jim Ruhland.

Next Monday, Damien High pitcher Vince Garcia and his coach Matt Kolodge will be the special guests. Garcia has been named the Valley High School Player of the Week for his performances against Ganesha and Garey last week in San Antonio League play.

Vince hurled a two-hit shutout against Ganesha, and then relieved an ousted Frank Pastore against Garey last Friday. Garcia was an all-tournament selection at the Pomona Elks Tournament this year.

In track, Pomona High's Hank Zibell will be honored as the Valley Track Athlete of the Week. Hank, a definite contender in CIF competition, set the shot put record at the Chino Relays last Friday night.

A fullback from the Red Devil football team, Zibell heaved the shot 58 feet, 11 inches to help Pomona to not only the individual record but also the team record in the shot put.

The team distance of 154-9½ shattered a 15-year-old record at the Relays.

WFL to reveal plans for 1975

NEW YORK (AP) — Recovering from a disaster is no simple thing, particularly when the disaster was the nightmare which the World Football League became in its infant season.

Somehow, the WFL believes it has recovered, at least enough to try and reach the dreams which were so thoroughly shattered last fall.

The stories about the WFL are incredible, and mostly true. A script writer couldn't have imagined anything much worse.

Against that backdrop and against first-year losses of $20 million and a record amount of lost credibility, the WFL will present itself Wednesday as a league with a future, as one which will play in 1975.

This time, however, the scheme is not so grandiose. The million-dollar contracts and supersalesmanship bandied about last year will be absent. In its place will be a league with a highly conservative—and for sports, revolutionary—financial structure.

The financing scheme, and indeed the fact that there will be a league, is a singular tribute to the reorganizing capabilities of Chris Hemmeter, a Hawaiian land developer who became somewhat upset last year when his Honolulu-based WFL lost in excess of $3 million.

That earned the Hawaiians the honor of having lost more in one season than any professional sports team before it, and it brought from Hemmeter a pledge that if there was to be a WFL again, it would be different or it would play without him.

Sources at the WFL meetings which have been in progress since the weekend say the league expects to announce a 10-team league on Wednesday. Helping to make that announcement will be such WFL players as Lary Csonka, Jim Kiick, Paul Warfield and Calvin Hill.

Just which cities are to be in the league was not publicly known today, and in fact the league may not know yet. Hemmeter said he remained "quite optimistic that our problem areas will be resolved, though much work remains to be done over the next few days."

What that means is that some cities are not yet firm. Philadelphia, Memphis, Honolulu, Shreveport, La., and Anaheim, Calif., are considered sure bets to be in the WFL. Cities considered likely franchise holders are Chicago, Birmingham, Ala., Jacksonville, Fla., Portland, Ore., and Charlotte, N.C.

All will operate under Hemmeter's financial plan, which requires that each team place in escrowed bank accounts 150 per cent of their anticipated operating expenses for 1975. Additionally, percentages of the team's revenue will be placed in four separate bank accounts, some of them controlled by the league.

It is from these accounts that the league intends to pay player salaries and stadium rents, thus avoiding last year's failures.

And, most players in the league will be guaranteed a $10,000 salary against one per cent of the team's gross revenue, whichever is greater. This will replace the standard professional player salary.

The league will play a 20game schedule, on weekends, beginning the first weekend in August.

Fresh Celtics romp

BOSTON (AP) — John Havlicek, the Boston Celtics' elder statesman, felt "rejuvenated" and his teammates must have felt the same in making a whipping boy of the upstart Houston Rockets.

The Rockets, fresh from eliminating the New York Knicks in an opening-round upset, hoped they'd catch the Celtics stale after an eight-day layoff since the end of the regular season.

The Celtics, led by Havlicek, quickly dispelled any such ideas and after a sluggish start rolled to a 123-106 victory over Houston Monday night in the opening game of their best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

In Monday's other semifinal opener, the Golden State Warriors pounded the Seattle SuperSonics 123-96.

Havlicek, appearing in playoffs for the 11th time in winding up his 13th year with the Celtics, scored 30 points, grabbed five rebounds and had nine assists. With 3,211 points in 138 playoff games, he trails only Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain among the all-time scoring leaders in NBA post-season play.

"We were rejuvenated," the 35-year-old Havlicek said. "Guys like (Don) Nelson, (Paul) Silas and myself welcomed the layoff because of our age. I think others like Dave Cowens also came back fresher even though we practice hard."

Asked if he thought he could play 40 minutes in every game if the Celtics go on to retain the NBA championship, Havlicek said:

"Certainly. Playing 40 minutes at this stage doesn't bother me. However, I hate to see halftime come because then I have to restart the motor all over."

The Celtics had trouble getting going in the opening minutes against the Rockets. However, they broke out of a 10-10 tie with the help of three field goals by Havlicek and were in front to stay.

"We were pretty sharp after eight days off," Boston coach Tom Heinsohn said. "That was my major concern. We played good defense. This was a big game for us, but we've got to win the next one Wednesday night or we lose the home court advantage.

"We can't afford any letdown. That club (Houston) looked bad against New York and came back to eliminate the Knicks. They can lull you to sleep and then croak you. We've got to play good basketball."

Coach Johnny Egan of the Rockets agreed.

"We can play better. We didn't have a good game," Egan said. "It's a whole new game Wednesday. We'll play better as the series progresses."

Rudy Tomjanovich, who scored 30 points for Houston, said the series with New York "did a lot for our confidence."

"We weren't nervous at all," the big forward said. "We were ready. Unfortunately, they (Celtics) were ready, too."

Warriors 123, Super Sonics 96

The layoff also helped Golden State's Rick Barry, who gunned in 39 points, had 10 assists and five steals to lead the Pacific Division champion Warriors past Seattle.

The Warriors' freshness showed in the second quarter when they made 76 per cent of their field goal attempts to outclass the tired Sonics, who came off a tough first-round series with the Detroit Pistons.

Leonard Gray topped the Seattle scorers with 20 points.

The Warriors held a 51-37 edge in rebounds.

Seattle shot 48 per cent from the floor as compared to 53 per cent by Golden State.

Spencer Haywood was used sparingly by the Sonics in the second half and wound up with 14 points.

Fred Brown of the Sonics was ejected from the game in the third period by referee Richie Powers for abusive language. Brown finished with eight points in 17 minutes.

L.A. sports face budget cuts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Supt. of Schools William Johnston presented a 1975-76 budget Monday which included a 50 per cent reduction of funds for interscholastic athletics.

In a speech accompanying the budget presentation Johnston said this year's budget for interscholastic athletics was about $1.5 million and that his proposal called for a reduction to about $700,000 in 1975-76.

A school spokesman said the proposed reduction had not been broken down into specific sports or to a specific number of coaches.

Johnston said those decisions would be left to the board, which will begin discussions on the budget Wednesday.

The proposal was part of a $1.04 billion budget which included a $41 million cutback.

Johnston stressed that the cutbacks could be averted by passage of Proposition A on the May 27 municipal election ballot. The proposal would increase the school tax rate by 38 cents per $100 assessed property valuation and would provide about $35 million in operating.

Bill Walton's tribulations go on and on

PORTLAND, Ore.(AP) — The trials and tribulations of Bill Walton and the Portland Trail Blazers continued Monday.

The 6-foot-11 center, who spent much of his rookie season in the National Basketball Association on the bench with injuries, tore ligaments in his left ankle during a practice game.

A physician said Walton's leg has been placed in a cast for at least two weeks.

Walton was sidelined much of the season with a painful bone spur on his left ankle. A cast to ease that condition was removed recently.

Hours earlier, the management of the Portland club issued a statement saying the Blazers "deplore Bill Walton's statement calling for rejection of the U.S. government."

Walton made the remark last week at a San Francisco press conference at which he was highly critical of the FBI. He appeared with Jack and Micki Scott, who lived with Walton for a time in his West Linn home.

The Scotts have been linked indirectly with Patricia Hearst.

At the news conference Walton called the FBI "the enemy" and said he rejected the U.S. government.

"We believe the National Basketball Association is an example of the opportunities available to people under our system of government, and Walton, more than most, has reaped extraordinary benefits from this system," the Blazer statement said.

Walton, an All-American from UCLA, was the No. 1 choice in the NBA collegiate draft last spring. He signed a five-year contract estimated at $1.9 million.

Valley JCs rate high in state poll

By BILL LANGLEY

The Pomona area can claim three of the top junior college baseball programs in the state.

According to the latest rankings compiled by the California Baseball Coaches' Association, Citrus is rated third followed by Mt. San Antonio fourth and Chaffey eighth.

"With three programs rated that high, that speaks well for our area," said Citrus Coach Skip Claprood at Monday's weekly baseball luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

Citrus has the most wins in the state with a 23-6 record. MSAC is 20-6 while Chaffey is 19-8.

"We're in the process of having our best season in Citrus' history yet we can't seem to shake Riverside and Chaffey in the Mission Conference race," Claprood said.

"A key to our success has been the depth of our pitching staff. We lost Eric Mustad for 13 games with an elbow inury. But John Field, our fourth pitcher, has come through with a 6-1 record," the Citrus coach added.

Claprood uses a staff of Mustad (5-1), Field, Jim Arkison (5-1) and Ron Walton (7-2).

For his save in the 7-6 win over Chaffey and victory over Saddleback, 5-4, Field was selected the JC Player of the Week.

Claremont-Mudd's Norm Richards earned the College Player of the Week honor while high school stars Anthony Munoz of Chaffey High and Jim Ruhland of Rowland High were saluted by Pomona Elks Lodge 789.

Quoting the coaches:

BILL ARCE, Claremont-Mudd: "I'm real pleased with our pitching. Richards has been a pleasant surprise. He's a junior and hasn't played baseball since his sophomore year in high school because of basketball. I felt we would have a good defense and should hit but we entered the season with an entire new pitching staff."

BEN HINES, La Verne: "We finally won a one-run game in beating Whittier. We haven't been playing good offensive baseball but the pitching has been better than we thought. We're about ready to play good baseball. I just hope it's not too late to win the conference. Nick Leyva has been our most consistent hitter. He leads the team in both runs (22) and RBIs (18)."

JOHN SCOLINOS, Cal Poly: "We are playing real good baseball right now. If we continue, we'll make some people take notice. I am tickled with the way we are hitting the ball. We're in good shape in the conference (CCAA) as we are tied in the loss column. We play UC Riverside in an important three-game series this weekend and UCR is a hot club."

TOM NELSON, Azusa Pacific: "We think our pitching staff is the best we've ever had at APC. Our bright spot has been Paul Moskau. He is just a super player. Brad Kramer had a big weekend for us with 11 RBIs in the three games. Ken Nance has also been a big surprise for us."

JIM SCHROEDER, Chaffey: "We're in third place in the Mission Conference's Northern Division but we still play second-place Riverside three times. We're almost at the spot where we can't afford another loss. We now have 117 stolen bases."

NHRA sponsors race at Antelope Valley

A brand new National Open event has been added to the National Hot Rod Association Southwest Division schedule.

Division Director Bernie Partridge announced this week that the HiDesert Spring Regionals at Antelope Valley Dragway near Palmdale has been set for May 17-18, 1975.

The new event will precede the west coast World Championship Series opener, and will be an all-Sportsman program, featuring Pro-Comp as the top-of-the-line category.

Track manager Mike Santino will post the largest all-Sportsman purse in the division to date. The track will undergo a number of impressive improvements to facilitate the many fine competitors.

In addition to Pro-Comp, generous prize money will be posted in Competition, Modified, Super Stock and Stock Eliminator categories, plus two E.T. Brackets.

National records will be offered in all Sportsman classes, and a special altitude correction factor will be in effect to compensate for the near 3000 ft. elevation of the track.

Antelope Valley Dragway is located a few miles east of Palmdale, near the intersection of Hwy 138 and Avenue T.

"Springtime in the desert is worth the trip alone," stated Partridge, "so plan now for an enjoyable weekend."

The schedule calls for qualifying Saturday night under the lights, with eliminations Sunday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

Hawley sets pace at Hollywood Park

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — When Sandy Hawley won five races opening day at Hollywood Park, friends asked him kiddingly what he would do for an encore.

Hawley must have had a good idea what he could do.

He rode two victories Saturday, three Sunday and topped that off with four Monday, including a pulsating neck victory on Native Guest in the featured $21,950 Debonair Stakes.

The 14 victories in the first four days of the meeting put Hawley nine ahead of defending champion Laffit Pincay, who had one winner Monday.

Hawley was idle in the first three races but then won the fourth through the sixth aboard Imacornishprince, $4.; Field Girl, $8. and Knave of Hearts, $6.

In the feature Hawley took Native Guest to the outside in the stretch where he to passed Udonegood and Cute and Deadly to cover the six furlongs in 1:08 4-5.

"He finished all right," said Hawley, who will celebrate his 26th birthday Wednesday. "It's tough to pick up good horses sprinting the way he did."

Carrying 119 pounds, Native Guest paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.20. Udonegood, carrying 122 pounds and ridden by Willie Shoemaker, returned $4 and $2.80. Rudy Campas rode Cute and Deadly to third place and a $3. payoff another half length back.

Mounties blank Santa Ana again in South Coast play

By MIKE BROSSART
P-B Correspondent

Mt. San Antonio College shut out South Coast Conference foe Santa Ana again Monday afternoon, but it was not as easy as it used to be.

It was the third time in as many tries that the Mounties have held the Dons scoreless this season. But compared to the 12-0 and 18-0 runaways MSAC posted last month at Santa Ana, Monday's 3-0 victory was a real squeaker.

"I knew they would be tough," said Mountie coach Art Mazmanian. "When you beat a team as badly as we beat them earlier, you'd better believe they're going to be out to get you."

But while the Mounties had a relatively difficult time scoring against two Santa Ana pitchers, MSAC left-hander Jim Vallone had practically no trouble keeping the Dons off the base paths.

In nine innings he faced just 28 batters, one over the minimum. He did not surrender a hit until the seventh inning, when Santa Ana collected two ground ball singles, the only safeties of the game for the visitors.

When the Dons did get a man on base, it did little good. Vallone picked off three of the six Santa Ana baserunners and catcher Rich Yaklin caught a Don trying to steal second.

Yaklin led the Mountie hitting attack as well, with a double and two singles in four tries. He scored a run and drove one in while second baseman Marty Shepherd scored two. Ron Roenicke walked twice and singled twice for one RBI, and Binky Benton drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

MSAC scored the first run of the game in the third inning when Shepherd was hit by a pitch and Yaklin doubled him home.

The Mounties scored two more in the seventh inning on two walks, two singles and a sacrifice fly. They threatened in every inning but the first two, leaving nine men on base, including five at third.

Now 7-3 in conference play, MSAC will host Orange Coast today at 2:30. THE Mounties will face first-place Cerritos (7-1) twice this week, at Cerritos Thursday and at MSAC Saturday.

Ryan tries for third win

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Nolan Ryan was to try for his third victory of the young season as the Angels met the Minnesota Twins today.

Ryan has allowed only two earned runs and struck out 22 batters in 18 innings as he defeated Kansas City 3-2 and blanked Chicago 5-0. He has two of California's three wins this season.

Dave Goltz was to oppose Ryan.

Andy Hassler will hurl against Burt Blyleven Wednesday and Bill Singer is tentatively scheduled to meet Vic Albury Thursday. All are day games.

SHOWS OFF GLOVES — Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey displays the batting gloves which will be given to youngsters 14 and under Friday night when the Dodgers host the Giants.

Three clubs form new swim team

A new team has been added to the area swim scene.

Following the disbanding of three clubs, their subsequent merger has resulted in the formation of the Mt. Baldy Aquatics club (MBA), a name reflecting the landmark common to all communities involved.

The three former clubs are the Claremont Novice team, (coach Gary Troyer), the Montclair Swim Club (coach Jack Davisson) and Upland Aquatics (coach Tom Grall). All three teams had coaches with proven abilities in specialized areas and the new club is profiting from their varied interests.

Tom Grall is coaching the senior AAU swimmers of the new club, with daily workouts at the Claremont Men's College pool.

Grall is a member of the U. S. Olympic Committee, president of the NAIA Swimming Coaches Association, chairman of the NAIA Swimming Rules Committee, and holds membership on other national swimming committees. He is in his first season as coach of swimming and water polo at Claremont-Mudd and has just led his team to an impressive NAIA national third place finish.

Jack Davisson continues working in his area of special interest with the younger age group AAU swimmers; daily workouts are held at Pomona College Pendleton pool. Davisson is well-known in the area for his prowess as mentor of the former Montclair Swim Club, both AAU and novice. He has been the swim coach at Montclair High School since 1967 and has guided his teams to San Antonio League Varsity Swim Team championships in 1973 and 1975; his high school team placed eighth in the CIF finals in 1975.

Troyer heads the novice team coaches of the MBA; workouts are held daily at Pomona College Memorial pool, El Roble Intermediate School in Claremont, Montclair High and Upland High with assistants in all pools.

Troyer's past experience includes many years of college and age group coaching; as head coach of Redlands Swim Club (where he coached swimmers ranked among the AAU "top ten"), the University of Redlands team and the Claremont Novice team.

All area youngsters interested in competitive swimming are invited to call Mrs. Week at 982-3430 for team and workout information.

Cheetahs set nine records at AAU meet

SANTA BARBARA — The Southern California Cheetahs Girls Track Club set two national and six meet records and also one district mark over the weekends at the AAU District Relay Championships at UC Santa Barbara.

One of the national records went to the Cheetahs' mile relay team in the 12-13 age group.

The quartet consisting of Della Equipilag, Lisa Peters, Barney Carral and Janet Ballard finished the mile in 4:02.3. The other national mark was set by the Cheetahs' 880 relay team in the 9 years and under division.

The four girls competing on that relay team were Evva Crowell, Blaire Bates, Tanya Granger and Stacy Granger. They were clocked in 2:04.2.

The same four girls also set a meet record in the 440 relay in 58.7 seconds. And then three of those four (T. Granger, S. Granger and Bates) teamed with Stacy Melton to set a meet record in the mile relay, running in a time of 4:46.4.

That same division won the first place team trophy for the Cheetahs.

Two meet records and a district record were set in the 10-11 age division, while two more meet marks fell in the 12-13 group.

The foursome of Melanie Johnson, Nitchka Granger, Julie Petersen and Tina Scott ran a record-breaking 54.8 in the 440 relay and set the district mark by running a 1:57.6 in the 880 yard relay.

Johnson, Scott and Sharon Hameline also established a meet record in the baseball throw with a combined distance of 507 feet, 8 inches.

Vicki Almeida, Dawn Peters, Pam Newton and Miss Ballard also team to set a meet record in the 12-13 880-yard relay in 1:52.3.

Miss Almeida, Jamie Anderson and Lisa Peters were also record-breakers in that age group in the long jump.

Walnut holds on to claim 6-4 win

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

All Terry Murphy is asking for is a repeat performance.

Walnut High's head baseball coach had just watched his Mustangs shut off Alta Loma's seventh-inning rally and collect a 6-4 victory in Hacienda League competition Monday.

"This was a big win for us," smiled the first-year skipper. "We finished the first round at 5-2. If we can go 5-2 in the second round I'll be happy. A 10-4 record would make me very happy. I think it would be good enough for the playoffs."

With the victory, Walnut pulled into a tie for second place in the Hacienda League standings with Royal Oak — both one game behind league-leading Bonita.

Both of the Mustangs' losses in the first round came at the hands of Bonita (5-1) and Royal Oak (7-4).

For a while Monday, it looked as though Walnut was going to suffer its third loss in league play.

Alta Loma's Tom Bright drilled a home run in the first inning over the left field fence — an estimated 395 feet — and the Braves cashed in on a Walnut throwing error to take a 2-0 lead through four innings of play.

Then came the fifth inning.

After Jim Bisesi reached base to lead off the inning on an Alta Loma error, Wallie Reisbeck singled and winning pitcher Butch Long walked to load the bases.

Then Bob Flores, who went two-for-four at the plate for the day, promptly singled to right to score two runs and tie up the score. After Keith McDermott struck out and Flores stole second, Alta Loma starter Joe Angiano intentionally passed Ken Czarnecki to load the bases again.

The Mustangs, once again, took advantage of the situation as Scott Stowell and Steve Walsh (two-for-three) delivered run-scoring singles. Stowell's was good for one run and Walsh's was good for two more, with Stowell eventually scoring on a throwing error by Braves catcher Bill Cannon.

All of a sudden, Walnut held a 6-2 lead.

Alta Loma started working on Mustang starter Butch Long right away in the bottom of the seventh as Cannon and Roger Gubichuk punched back-to-back singles to lead off the inning.

After one out, Bob Branchetti three-for-four drilled a single to left to score one run, and then Murphy went to Mark Shultz and pulled Long.

Schultz, seemingly having trouble getting his arm loose enough in the cold weather, gave up a run scoring double to Bright after fanning Steve Hargrave.

Mark, however, couldn't get the last one. So Murphy went to Czarnecki, who got the final out when second baseman Flores snagged a ground ball going through the hole in the middle of the field and threw out Anthony Vasquez to end the game.

Chaffey falls in CBL play

RIALTO — With the bases loaded in the bottom of the eighth inning, Chaffey High pitcher Anthony Munoz hit Eisenhower's James Taylor with a pitch to give the Eagles a 2-1 extra-inning victory over Chaffey in Citrus Belt League play Monday.

The loss dropped Chaffey's record to 3-2 in the CBL, while Eisenhower (6-0) remained unbeaten.

Chaffey had taken a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Munoz singled and Tim Delks tripled him home.

Eisenhower tied it up with Bill Hornsby led off the bottom of the seventh with a home run.

In the bottom of the eighth, Munoz gave up a single a fielder's choice and a walk before hitting Taylor after going to a full count.

Chaffey (10-5 for the season) is scheduled to visit Redlands today at 3:30 p.m.

Talking computer is energy saver

TOLEDO (AP) — A direct telephone line to a computer with a simulated human voice is being used by a buildings products firm to cut time in figuring energy and fuel cost savings in planning new industrial and commercial construction projects.

"The 'talking computer' is the first of its kind to be used in this fashion," says Fred Purtill, vice president and general manager of Owens-Corning Fiberglas's Architectural Products Division. "It is called the Energy Management System line, and is the newest part of our on-going program to promote the need for enegy conservation among architects, engineers, building owners and the general public."

DANCE TIME — Sheri Henderson and Jim Patricia perform "Remote Encounter," in "An Evening of Dance" by the Scripps College Dance Theater. The presentation will be in Garrison Theater at 8 p.m. Friday. Patricia, a Harvey Mudd College student, choreographed the work. Tickets are $1.50 general, $1 for students and faculty.

At Garrison

College students plan 'An Evening of Dance'

The Scripps College Dance Theater made up of students of the Claremont Colleges, will present "An Evening of Dance" in Garrison Theater at 8 p.m. Friday.

A highlight of the program will be choreographer Tandy Beal's "Manhattan Transit." Miss Beal, formerly with the Alwin Nikolais Company of New York, is currently on the faculties of U.C. Santa Cruz and Cabrillo College. She choreographed the work in February when she was in residence at Scripps. Eleven dancers wearing everyday clothes will do a series of almost improvisational movements on the bare stage.

The Dance Theater, directed by Scripps dance faculty members Linda Levy and Judith Scalin, will also present eight student-choreographed works. These include three solo numbers—"Une Femme Seule" choreographed by Juli Bliss and danced by Franci de Joseph; "The Compassionate," choreographed by Sheri Henderson and danced by Miss Bliss to Chopin's Nocturne; and "Sweet Butterfly of Love; choreographed and danced by Denise K. Nelson.

Jim Patricia choreographed "Remote Encounter" which he dances with Miss Henderson.

"Warm Canto," a moody blues piece choreographed by Judy Vallens, features five dancers, all in blue. In "Driven," choreographed by Janet Roston, nine leotard-clad dancers perform a frantic, fast-paced number.

Miss Nelson choreographed "Part II," a jazz number with seven dancers. Choreographer Liz Milwe presents "Ladies," featuring four ladies in a coffee house dancing to original music arranged by David Murray.

Sarah Johnson is stage manager and Michael Burney is lighting designer for the production.

Other members of the Scripps Dance Theater are Steve Bram, Stan Ransom, Doug Hudson, Linda Donaldson, T. A. Gibbs, Debi Michel, Dianne Davis, Patti Grunther, Leslie Harnish, Rita Jepson, Julie Porter, James King, Allison Saar, Ilisa Wine, Maria Payne, Carnetta Jones, Elise Frankenheimer and Andrea Molyneaux. Karen Robbins of Claremont High School is also a member of the group.

Tickets, costing $1 for students, faculty and staff of the Claremont Colleges, and $1.50 for general admission, may be obtained at the Bridges Auditorium box office or at the door.

JAMES WHITMORE

Truman show scheduled at Ahmanson

James Whitmore will present "Give 'em Hell Harry!" a characterization of President Harry S. Truman, in the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center for two weeks tarting May 19.

The actor broke all records as humorist Will Rogers in repeated engagements of "Will Rogers' U.S.A." Now he is engaged in a dramatic vehicle. Only words uttered or written by Truman are used and arranged into play by playwright Samuel Gallu. Peter Hunt will direct. The setting is by James Hamilton.

"Give 'Em Hell Harry!" will come to the Ahmanson Theater after its opening in the Ford Theater, Washington, D.C. It will play evenings at 8:30, except Sundays. Matinees are at 2:30 on Thursdays and Saturdays. Mail orders now are accepted at the Music Center.

Citrus to present 'Glass Menagerie'

Citrus College will present "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams, in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and the following weekend.

The play tells the story of a poverty-stricken mother striving to give meaning and direction to her life and the lives of her two children, Amanda Wingfield, portrayed by Deborah Thorenson of Azusa, is a tragic remnant of Southern gentility, living in a dingy St. Louis apartment. Other members of the cast are Michael Kasnetsis of Covina, as Tom; Kathy Selke of Claremont, as Laura, and Rod Guthrey, also of Claremont, as Jim.

The two-act play, Williams' first success, has become one of the classics of the American theater. The Citrus production is a continuation of the programs of the 1930s. Frederic G. Carlson, theater arts instructor, directs the play. Frank Clark is assistant director, and Dave Johnson is stage manager.

General admission is $1.50. Tickets are $1 for students, senior citizens and children under 12.

In continuing the 1930s theme, the Little Theater group is doing a reader's theater presentation of a 1930s radio show, May 16 and 17. Another play from the 1930s, "Light up the Sky," by Moss Hart, will be presented May 28-31.

Reservations may be made by calling the Little Theater, 599-5773, ext. 259.

Harpsichord recital set at Pomona

Concert harpsichordist Mark Kroll will present a recital of works on the Baroque period in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

Kroll will perform the Sonata in D Minor, and the French Suite in B Minor by J. S. Bach; the Sonata II for Harpsichord by W. F. Bach, and the "Pieces pour clavecin" by J. Duphly.

Kroll is a former member of the faculty of US Santa Cruz, and holds the master of music degree from Yale University.

He has appeared in solo and joint recitals and as featured guest soloist with major ensembles throughout the United States and Canada.

GLENDA JACKSON stars in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" through Saturday at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. The new version of the play is by the Royal Shakespeare Company. It is staged by Trevor Nunn.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,
